'The Strangers'

Teach, Assist, Accept

(This is the final chapter of "The Strangers," a searching report on the plight of B.C. native Indians)

By G. E. MORTIMORE

The difficulties that beset B.C.'s Indians have been presented in some detail in the chapters of this series, now drawing to a close. The evidence is in, gathered all over the province, from the people who know the problems best, and it's time to draw some conclusions.

The question is, what can be done to steer the Indians toward modern citizenship and ancient pride? Here are some answers.

Indians must be trained for responsibility and self-reliance. The Indian affairs branch is trying to do this—but not hard enough. There should be a stepped-up program of training for band councillors in local government. As Indians gain business sense, they should be given more control of their own money and business dealings. Red tape should be cut, so as to reduce the Indians' feeling of helpless dependence on an impersonal government machine. But the government should continue to guard their interests.

More Indians should be trained as teachers and administrators. Men and women who are learned in the Indian arts and traditions—men like George Clutesi and Mungo Martin—should be hired to give talks and demonstrations that would strengthen the Indians' pride in their own racial identity.

Mix Them in Schools

More Indian children should go to school with white children. School integration is not a cure-all for Indian troubles, as some people imagine. Its main advantage is to bring Indian children into close association with whites. This can be accomplished, even where separate schools exist, by gathering Indians and whites together in camps and organizing exchange visits for sports and debating games.

Indians from the wilderness may be better off in separate schools, at least for the first two or three years. Some Indian children can benefit by starting earlier than white children, in kindergartens.

There should be a large increase in the number of scholarships of all kinds offered to Indian students. There should be an expansion in technical training and apprenticeships. Fewer than 100 young Indians a year now receive trade training.

A halt should be called at once to the practice in institutions of making Indians ashamed of their homes and families, and of trying to make them reject their culture. Teachers in separate schools who are ignorant or biased about the Indian tradition should be fired, and replaced by first-class teachers at salaries far above the provincial scale.

Special textbooks dealing with the regional Indian cultures and the over-all pattern of Indian life in Canada should be prepared, for whites as well as Indians.

Going Back Best Way

There should be no more effort to talk Indians out of "going back to the reserve." Going back to the reserve is the best way that educated Indians can help their own people. However, it would be wise for many of them to learn how to make their living off the reserve—then come back. Ed Kelly of Sardis worked in Vancouver for years as a barber, then came home and built a smart new house and shop on his home reserve.

There should be a more vigorous program of reserve development. The Indian afairs branch for example, is reluctant to help Indians start stores. The branch should reverse its attitude, begin training Indians for business, and finance reliable storekeepers on the reserve.

Relocation? Here is a possible pilot plan: Finance the removal of some families to the city, pay for technical training and establishment in business—on condition that they did return to the reserve for a specified number of years, and teach others. Coupled with this should be a plan for all-round community development, and attempts to promote industry in or near reserves.

In areas where there is patently no chance for Indians to make a living, Indians might be assisted to move to jobs in other places—without losing their interest in their reserve land. Loans should be granted Indians for housing, and granted more freely for business.

The "enfranchisement" plan, which calls for Indians to renounce their Indian status in return for liquor and the federal vote, should be thrown overboard, and perhaps recently enfranchised Indians allowed their status back.

Indians should be allowed liquor and the federal vote—if they want it. In some places, they don't. The Indian Act already allows for a plebiscite by

Last Plea to Reds To Halt A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower again challenged Russia Saturday to join the United States and Britain in a one-year ban of all atomic-hydrogen weapons tests beginning next Friday.

Eisenhower put it up to Moscow to end its current series of test explosions by that date as a step toward world disarmament.

Trapped Men Presumed Dead

Last Hope Gone, Springhill Prays

Town Turns to Its Churches As Grim Diggers Labor On

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — The 7,000 people of Springhill today turned to churches for strength to face the hours before the final toll of Thursday's coal mine disaster is known. (See stories on page 9.)

The disaster, third in two years, occurred Thursday night when a bump—a strata upheaval—trapped 174 men in the mine. Ten have been definitely listed as dead, unofficial reports said an 11th body was removed from the mine late last night and 82 other miners still trapped are officially presumed dead.

STILL DIGGING

Rescue workers continued to dig through rock and debris last night toward the levels where the missing miners are. While the populace worships today, the diggings will continue.

Nova Scotia Premier Stanfield announced organization of a national fund campaign to aid stricken families. Mr. Stanfield said his government would start off the fund with $50,000 in immediate assistance.

RUMORS SPREAD

As each hour passed and hope weakened, rumors that men were found alive in the deeps circulated. They brought immediate reaction from officials of Dominion Steel and Coal Company.

Public relations officer C. A. Patterson said: reports "distorting the facts" had been filtering into newspapers and radio stations. He said there is no change in the situation and "false hope only causes added sorrow and distress among people heavily burdened."

ORDERED OUT

H. C. M. Gordon, president and general manager of the company, directed underground operations continually for 24 hours until he was ordered to rest.

Workers formed bucket brigades underground, passing pails of rubble from one to another through cramped tunnels. They have not yet reached the 13,000-foot level where a number of miners were working when disaster struck.

TORTUOUS JOB

It's a slow, torturous job that Mr. Gordon said may take more than a week.

The mine, Cumberland No. 2, is the deepest in North America.

Mr. Gordon said rescue efforts will continue whether the missing men are dead or alive. Efforts are being concentrated in an area 13,000 feet down, where 50 to 55 men were working at the time of the shock.

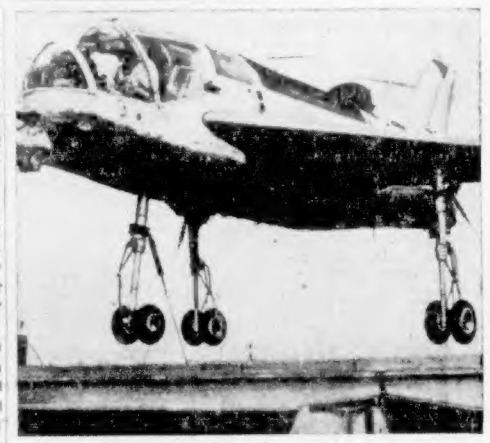
TEST FOR GAS

While miners with picks and shovels inched through the underground jungle of broken timbers and heavy boulders, others with respirator masks tested the slanting slopes ahead for poisonous gas.

Above them on the surface stood clusters of women still holding to a slender thread of hope strung through pessimistic reports of those who have seen the devastation below.

In the Good Ol' Autumn Time

What better way to recapture briefly the fun of summer than to shuck shirts and play baseball, asked Mike Flynn, 10, kneeling, and his brother Dan, 11, of 619 Bay. The two boys were playing at Central Park as clear skies and warmish weather deluded many Victorians into thinking winter must be a long way off.



New Plane Can Hang Motionless

Britain's pioneering research plane the SC1, a direct descendant of the famous "flying bedstead," rose vertically off a metal runway at Belfast Saturday and hung motionless in the air under the power of four down-blasting jet engines. It was the first free flight by the delta-wing plane. After rising high in the air it remained stationary and then flew some distance before easing into a landing. Verdict of test pilot Tom Brooke-Smith: "Easy." It is pictured here in an earlier "tethered" flight.

Milkmen Vote Against Strike

New negotiations are expected to start soon between four major city dairies and representatives of 200 employees, following rejection by the employees of strike action to back up contract demands.

A surprise vote of 89-78 was recorded against strike action in a government-supervised ballot Thursday and Friday by Local 64, Milk Drivers' and Dairy Employees' Union.

But it was understood last night this would not mean automatic acceptance of an offer by the companies, that still stands. The union will attempt to gain more than the offer of a $15 monthly increase retroactive to June 1 and for the remainder of this year, and $10 more a month starting Jan. 1.

About 75 per cent of the employees a month ago voted to reject the company offer.

The strike vote was taken when the companies refused to accept a majority conciliation board award recommending wage increases that had been won on the mainland of $40 each month for plant employees and $43.75 for drivers in a two-year contract.

Cyprus Terror Kills 14

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A British soldier was killed and seven were wounded Saturday by an electrically-detonated mine in Yialousa village, a stronghold of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground organization.

Total British casualty figures since Oct. 1, when EOKA launched a new anti-British offensive, are now 14 dead and 69 wounded.

Downtown Area Shattered

Blast Jolts Ottawa

OTTAWA (AP) — A mysterious explosion shattered a section of downtown Ottawa Saturday, causing extensive material damage but no deaths.

Thirty-six persons were hospitalized and others were treated for lesser injuries. The total number of injured was estimated as high as 50.

The blast ripped through a block bounded on one side by Bank Street, a main shopping thoroughfare. Three buildings were wrecked.

The explosion occurred at 8.17 a.m. A similar explosion on a week day undoubtedly would have caused heavy casualties.

"It is a miracle there was not a heavy death toll," said Mayor George Nelms.

The blast was felt 11 miles away. Sidewalks and streets within a four-block radius were littered with glass from smashed windows. Parliament buildings, five blocks from the centre of the explosion, suffered no apparent damage.

Estimates of damage ranged from $2,000,000 up.

The federal government's nine-storey Jackson Building, across the street from the blast centre, appeared to be a wrecked shell with hundreds of windows broken.

Five persons were sucked through the plate glass window of a department store half a block away. They were not injured severely.

Guy LaBelle said he saw a car lifted about 100 feet in the air. It bounced off a building across the street.

A witness a block away said "it seemed to rain glass. I didn't know whether to run inside or fall on the ground."

A suspected cause at first was leaking natural gas. Police roped off six blocks in fear of further explosives.

Save Aged On Streets

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury recommended here Friday that senior citizen's organizations intensify campaigns to educate their members in traffic safety. They ruled that the death of William Hulsh, 69, last Wednesday, was accidental.

Golfing President Rebuffs Huge Pro-Integration Rally

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of Negro and white students marched in Washington Saturday in a pro-integration rally rebuffed by President Eisenhower.

The president went out to play golf.

Singing star Harry Belafonte told the estimated 9,000 to 10,000 demonstrators gathered at the Lincoln Memorial that Eisenhower, by not meeting a committee from the marchers, had made a gesture of far-reaching meaning to millions throughout the world.

"I think you have demonstrated to the world that Little Rock is not America," added former baseball hero Jackie Robinson.

"I'm only sorry that the president has not demonstrated by his action that he agrees with what we are doing this afternoon." Leaders of the demonstration voiced indignation at their failure to get an appointment with the President.

A Whole Horse For First Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was last Thursday that Hyman G. Rickover was promoted to vice-admiral in the navy, in part because of his work in developing the atomic-powered submarine.

The day before, a horse named Rickover won the fifth race at Belmont Park in New York, paying $20.50 for a $2 win ticket.

Asked about the coincidence Saturday, Adm. Rickover said only: "No other admiral in history has ever had a whole horse named for him."

bands about whether or not liquor is to be allowed on the reserve. A band should also be able to decide by referendum whether it wants the federal vote.

Indians should be allowed to keep their reserves and their tax privileges. Perhaps the tax privileges would take a different form. The Hawthorn report says: "We believe that . . . the intention of agreements made with (the Indians) was to confer precisely these privileges in perpetuity." They are a compensation for what has been taken from the Indians.

Tax Changes

However, the Hawthorn report suggests, Indian land might be subject to provincial taxation, and income tax exemption extended to all Indians, whether or not they live on reserves. This is a matter for further study. (At present, only Indians who live on reserves are exempt from income tax).

So far, the provincial government has done comparatively little to help the Indians. It has granted Indians the vote, and limited liquor privileges; it has given some help with welfare; and has encouraged agreements that would allow integrated schools.

schools. It has created an Indian advisory committee.

No Repentance

However, it has done nothing to show repentance for the province's past close-fisted dealing over Indian land. In general, it refuses to allot any more land for Indian reserves — even though the Indian title to the land of B.C. has never been settled. Whenever important Indian matters arise, it passes the buck to the federal government.

At the same time, vast areas of Crown land, which Indians still regard as theirs, are being alienated by such firms as Wenner-Gren. The government would win votes and goodwill if it:

1. Insisted that firms like Wenner-Gren set aside trust funds to look after the Indians in the region;

2. Relaxed its policy on Indian reserves; let the poorer bands have some compensation for what they have lost. It was the province, not the federal government, that took the lands from them. The province should do something to make good. Perhaps the province could grant some lands without reserve status.

Equal Privileges

The province should act at once to allow Indians equal drinking privileges—if they approve of it by plebiscite.

What can the ordinary people do to help the Indians? Just try to understand them. When an Indian boy applies for a garage job, give him a try. If he looks morose, remember that he has had troubles; but he still may be a good mechanic.

Women's Institutes set a good example when they sought to enrol Indian members. More clubs should do the same. They should welcome the Indian not in a strained, patronizing way, but as human beings.

Don't Be Ashamed

What can the Indians do for themselves? First of all, they should stop being ashamed of their culture, as some ignorant whites have taught them to be. Many of them should go back to their home villages and live among their own people; others return from time to time and keep in touch. As more Indians are educated, they will find more people in their home communities who have experiences in common with them.

Indians should continue to stand up for what they believe to be their rights—such as compensation for the seizure of their lands in B.C. But they should not lean on their grudge. They should be like people who have a lawsuit; hope they win, but keep on working meanwhile.

Sincere Effort

Finally, they should try to shed some of their burden of hostility, realize that white men are here to stay, and credit some of them with being sincere in their efforts to help.

When the Indians can shake off their feeling of persecution and join hands in partnership with the white men, they will no longer be strangers in their own country.

U.S. Always Too Late—Monty

LONDON (UPI)—The Western allies are studying a proposal by French Premier Charles de Gaulle for a U.S.-British-French political "directorate" for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, informed diplomatic sources said yesterday.

First reactions have been cool, the same sources said.

They predicted the plan would run into stiff opposition from NATO members, particularly West Germany and Italy. Both, it was said, are likely to object to any three-nation political control of the alliance that would exclude them.

NO COMMENT

The British foreign office has refused official comment. A spokesman would not even confirm that such a French proposal has been made.

However, authoritative French sources in Paris said de Gaulle first broached the idea to British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and U.S. Secretary of State Foster Dulles last summer. Later, these sources said, de Gaulle wrote personal notes to President Eisenhower and Macmillan.

Other NATO countries have also been informed, the French sources said.

HEARD IN GERMANY

The contents of the de Gaulle plan were not disclosed in Paris. Perhaps significantly, the gist of it first leaked out in West Germany—one of the nations expected to oppose it most strenuously.

Following reports in Der Mittag of Dusseldorf, West German press chief Felix Eckardt and a Bonn foreign office spokesman disclosed the plan called for closer co-operation among the big three in the political field.

This would be similar to the existing U.S.-British-French co-operation in the military field through the NATO standing group in Washington, the Bonn spokesman said.

ONE OF MANY

Von Eckardt, however, played down the importance of the French proposal. He asserted it was simply one of "about a dozen" plans for streamlining the alliance's procedure put forward since the NATO "summit" conference in Paris last December.

Diplomatic sources said the de Gaulle proposal contended one of NATO's biggest weaknesses is that the standing council of 14 nations is too unwieldy a body to give centralized political direction.

NATO 'Directorate' Gets Cool Reaction

LONDON (Reuters) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery blasted American foreign policy Friday as being two years behind the times, and said the United States must shoulder a large part of the blame for the present world situation.

The 70-year-old soldier, who retired last month as NATO deputy supreme commander, also called for a drastic overhaul of NATO because it is "complicated, cumbersome and grossly overstaffed."

Montgomery, lecturing to the Royal United Service Institution, was equally caustic in criticizing Britain's post-war policy. Britain had to take "first blame" for failing to take the necessary political steps to win the peace after it became apparent Nazi Germany would be defeated.

The "second degree" of blame he pinned on the United States, to which world leadership passed after Britain's post-war Labor government, busy with its socialist program, "declined" it.

It took the U.S. two years before it joined the two world wars, two years before it realized the full implications of the 1956 Suez intervention and two years before it fully supported the Baghdad Defence Pact.

The field marshal said the danger of war now is greater in Africa and Asia than in Europe. He said Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung may become more dangerous than Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Montgomery said the United States seemed to have one policy in the United Nations and another when its own national interests were involved.

The U.S. supported ex-colonial powers in Western Europe, but worked to destroy their influence in Asia and Africa. The result was a decline of much of the Dutch, French and British empires, all of which have been astabilizing influence in the tumble of postwar "rough years."

"It must now be clear to all, except the very stupid, that if the United States had not sabotaged the Suez operations and had joined the Baghdad Pact earlier, the situation in the Middle East would be very different today."

On NATO, he said: "We lack unity. We are a group of nations unable to agree now to get where we want to go."

There should be a simplified organization for NATO and the Free World, with the NATO council deciding policy and a sort of "general manager" carrying it out.

With G. E. Mortimore

A WOMAN I know, arrived from England not long before, ventured to correct the grammar of her small niece, aged nine.

"We don't say 'ain't,' Louise," she observed.

The little girl assumed a look of easy superiority. "You don't say it, but we do," she announced. "You're English. WE'RE Canadians."

The woman from England tried to point out gently that "ain't" was unacceptable usage anywhere. But the little girl would have it that the word was part of her national idiom—a new streamlined phrase which marked the difference between her countrymen and those backward people of England.

Had the little girl only known it, the word was imported from England many years before she was born—a bit of fashionable slang that fell into disuse among the educated and became the property of the semi-literate.

But the little girl had nothing to be ashamed of. Grown-ups are also deceived by the "Ain't Fallacy." In fact many (perhaps most) of the qualities of speech which the extreme nationalists like to think of as peculiarly Canadian were originally imported from Britain or the United States.

Many of the word pronunciations, and also the social customs, which are thought to be indigenous to Canada are actually American imports. Some of those pronunciations and customs actually began in the United States. Others are, in a way, living fossils. They are customs and pronunciations which were brought to the United States from Britain centuries ago.

Since that time they have died in their home country, but have become imbedded in American usage. Many Canadians, brought up to believe subconsciously that everything American is good and modern and that everything British is fussy and outmoded, adopt those words and customs as their own.

To a celestial observer who had the gift of scanning people over two or three centuries, it would be amusing to see Canadians adopting, as a symbol of national independence, a fashion that had reached them from Britain via the United States. Some Canadians may find this statement annoying. But if they are honest, they will confess that it shows how fatuous the whole business of rabid nationalism is.

Hit-Run Driver Grabs Fender, Leaves Scene

Frank A. Parham of 1020 Catherine yesterday pleaded guilty to hit-and-run and careless driving charges in city police court.

He was remanded to Monday for sentence in connection with a two-car accident at Bay and Vancouver, at 7.15 p.m. Friday.

Parham stopped his car just long enough to shout to the driver of the other car, Thomas L. Hardisty, of 2769 Claude, that he was going to park his car; then he picked up a fender torn off in the accident and drove off, the court was told.

An elderly man stood up in court while the case was being heard and started to ask Magistrate H. C. Hall for clemency, but Mr. Hall interrupted and told him he could not address the court.

Mother Dead, Children Starve

Unaware that their mother lay dead on her bed, these three children spent three days searching empty cupboards for food, while locked in their small flat in Toronto. Twins Michael, left, and Patrick Gallagher, right, and their sister Darlene were rescued when the landlady and a tenant saw smoke seeping from the flat and called firemen. The children had ignited a piece of cardboard on the gas stove.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT

Better Health Through Knowledge

- Weather and Blood Pressure
- X-Rays

Q. Is it true that blood pressure is affected by changes in weather?

A. No. Two Georgia physicians examined 483 patients and found no evidence that changes in air temperature, barometric pressure, or relative humidity were associated with changes in blood pressure.

Q. Are shoe-fitting X-ray machines safe?

A. It depends upon what you mean by "safe." Some shoe-fitting X-ray machines are probably as safe as the manufacturers can make them—others are anything but safe. Shoes can be properly fitted without such gadgets. Why spend part of your radiation allowance for a needless procedure?

Material in MEDICAL MIRROR is based on the published findings of various doctors. Reader's questions are welcome and will be answered anonymously in this column whenever possible. Letters can not be answered individually.

Russians Honored?

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1958 Nobel prize in physics may go to three Soviet atomic scientists whose research may show that light is not the fastest thing in the universe after all.

This was reported Saturday by the newspaper Aftonbladet. If the report is true, the award might soothe the wounds of the Kremlin over the naming of Russian writer Boris Pasternak as the winner of the Nobel prize for literature.

The newspaper said the Nobel physics prize will be split three ways among Profs. P. A. Cherenkov, Igor E. Tamm and I. M. Frank.

Help Will Be Needed

THE cave-in at Cumberland No. 2 mine of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company in Springhill, N.S., has deepened in tragedy as rescue efforts to reach 83 men trapped two and a half miles down in the workings were found blocked by massive falls of rock. A Nova Scotia mines' official said yesterday that only a miracle could bring out alive many of those who had been entombed. Everyone will pray for that slender hope, but it is probable that the Cumberland cave-in may become one of the worst disasters in the nation's history in the last half-century. The Canadian Red Cross is already on the job in the serious task of reorganizing family life and doing whatever can be done to alleviate distress.

Unless there is an unlooked for turn in the developments, some four-score families may have lost their breadwinners. All so bereaved will need help from across the breadth of the nation on the widest possible basis. In addition to every voluntary fund now in the process of origination, there will also have to be public assistance in a disaster of such severity. The Dominion government has asked to be kept informed of the need that has thus developed, and there is no doubt that federal assistance will be forthcoming when the exact condition to be met is finally known.

It is likely that the Provinces will follow suit, and for our part we would like to see British Columbia make its gesture now with a substantial grant from the provincial treasury on behalf of B.C. citizens. Meanwhile all voluntary efforts will be worthwhile, and will have the additional advantage of being helpful immediately at the scene.

If present fears should be confirmed, the Springhill disaster may rank as one of the greatest civil tragedies in the life of this nation since the Halifax harbor explosion. Its effects will carry forward in many a home for a generation to come as a saddening blight. Whatever can be done to relieve resultant distress must rest upon the prospect of early and substantial assistance from all sources, public and private, that can be rallied. For the long pull, however, a Springhill disaster-relief organization must be set up with adequate funds to do the job.

Parking Lot Partnership

FROM a long belated and somewhat hesitant start, plans to provide additional off-street parking through a form of partnership between the City and its downtown merchants appear to have gained momentum at last.

Due to the indecision and procrastination which characterized earlier councils, much valuable time has been lost, along with ground which in some instances cannot now be recovered. This problem of parking is not an easy one to solve, as all municipalities in North America well know; but it is one which will not go away of its own accord. Delay in some cities has aggravated it to the point where there is now no workable solution. Lack of parking space in or near the heart of cities has been the chief factor in the decentralization of retail trading and the rapid growth of self-contained suburban shopping centres, to the detriment of merchants downtown who have had to watch their taxes rise while the business that used to be theirs has been going elsewhere.

Victoria's present council appears to be fully aware of this aspect of the situation, and to be tackling the parking problem with determination lacking hitherto. The product of this is a comprehensive report soon to be presented to the council by its engineering branch. The precise nature of the proposals has not been disclosed, but they are understood to contain a plan for the acquisition of off-street parking space which would put some financial responsibility onto the merchants, who would derive the benefit, rather on the general taxpayers, many of whom would not.

In view of the misuse being made of the streets because there are not enough parking spaces away from them, off-street parking has become a civic responsibility; but it is also, and perhaps primarily, a merchants' responsibility which they must undertake in order to retain fickle trade. A partnership therefore appears to be an admirable arrangement.

A Pat on the Back

ONE of the delightful things about sport is its unexpectedness. Names on paper, no matter how illustrious, do not necessarily guarantee superlative performance. If this were not so, in fact, competitions might fold up, for if there were not the hope of victory no club would want to compete. Thus it is that pre-season lineups do not offer a true indication of what actually will take place once a playing season gets under way.

These reflections are induced by the pleasant surprise given to local hockey supporters by the Cougars. On paper and with last winter's results in mind the prospects for this year may have seemed none too cheering. Some other clubs seemed to have retained much the same formidable rosters that gained them prominence a year ago. By contrast the Cougars' paper strength scarcely promised a top-ranking contender. But what has happened? The Cougars have displayed fine playing form and upset the notions of more highly favored teams.

This is written before last night's game, but notwithstanding that local supporters have reason to feel an encouraging glow as they make their way on games nights to the Arena. Because the Cougars are more or less a community club there is perhaps a more personal attachment to their doings. This intensifies the hopes and fears common to all sports supporters. It also causes the results to be felt more keenly.

Fine early performance does not necessarily imply a wholly successful season. There is a long way to go yet and many upsets and difficulties to be overcome. Because of their opening spirit and enterprise, however, the players deserve a pat on the back. If they keep up their form they will amply repay the interest and support of even their most critical fans.

Controlling Production

Closure of the Crofton pulp mill Nov. 1 for nine days should provide its employees and district residents in general with a lesson in modern methods of control of production.

The plant will be closed because under today's planning there is no sensible alternative. Strange as it may seem the closure decision, the result of temporary over-capacity in the industry, will protect the wage level of the employees as well as the future market.

Evils of Hitch-hiking

In Central Saanich the municipal administrators have shown a strength of character which is not always evident in small communities by taking police action to control school students who hazard their own welfare on the highways by careless walking. The problems of students on the highways is by no means restricted to Central Saanich.

Week after week it is a familiar experience on all parts of the Patricia Bay Highway and on other roads to see students gathered in ones, two, or larger groups, seeking a lift from passing cars. In some instances the hitch-hikers are orderly and keep well to the side of the road.

Homes for the Old Folk

Can we meet the challenge of the senior citizens' homes rent reduction campaign? We are being called on to work and to give in one of the most ambitious undertakings ever considered in this district. We cannot take success of the drive for granted.

In order to achieve the objective—$50,000 to free succeeding tenants of the homes from worry and anxiety—every resident of the district must have a feeling of personal responsibility for the outcome. Not every household can afford to give $10, but many can afford to give much more. Those who contribute what they can will share in the reward and, as in most cases, the reward will be as great as the undertaking itself.

—TWIN CITIES TIMES

Vociferous Minorities

Practically every town, hamlet, village or city has among its residents a group which could be termed "a vociferous minority," so Campbell River cannot claim distinction in that regard.

The names of the people making up such a group are seldom, if ever, on the rosters of service clubs or other public service bodies. Reasons are of course quite obvious. They are the self-appointed critics on every matter that goes on and their criticism is destructive. Constructive criticism is not within their realm of reason.

—CAMPBELL RIVER COURIER

Organized Activities

Organizations throughout the district are reconvening this month for a new season of activities. There is a great deal of fun poked at organizations and their members, but if we stop and consider the solid achievements right in this district, they are amazing.

Included in the services and facilities we use and enjoy, which would not have been available to us except through the vision and endeavors of voluntary workers are such things as the life-sustaining blood administered to those in a critical condition, the books from the library, the loan we swing at the Credit Union, the swimming pool, the curling rink, and many others besides.

A NEWS item telling how Bebe Daniels broke her arm in London while making a TV film cites her years as 57. Presumably she is not as coy about her age as some other luminaries. But how time flies! She will not be even a name to whole generations of modern North American movie audiences, yet once she was a favorite cinematic star of these parts. Thinking it over, this news item makes one feel old, for, unfortunately time does not stand still for one person and not another.

It is true that Remembrance Day Day is now a holiday whereas in the beginning this annual tribute was simply a Two Minutes Silence. It is a false conclusion that the significance of the occasion is thereby lessened, however. Everyone didn't pause for two minutes in any case, and even if they did the resumption of their work-a-day duties tended to dispel the effect and make the remembrance a fleeting emotion. The chances are much greater that even in holiday mood people will recall the reason for the holiday, probably for longer than two minutes. Certainly those who care about such things find the Cenotaph ceremony deeply satisfying. Actually that is all that matters.

Letter from London

Violence Blots Tory Copybook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

IT is just as well for the Conservative Party that they are not facing a general election this fall. The most popular political group headed by the most popular prime minister (according to all the experts, opinion polls, and the generally reliable pub grapevine) only a couple of weeks ago, are now in very serious trouble as the result of some exceedingly unfortunate violence at Blackpool at the end of the party conference.

We have in Britain amongst various crackpot societies an organization known as the League of Empire Loyalists which specializes in trying to break up meetings on the pretext of diehard patriotism. No one seems to be very sure what it stands for, least of all individual members who differ on policy, but there is no doubt that their main purpose in life is the pursuit of publicity and they achieved their best results by an assault on Lord Altrincham when he said a few words about the Queen's girlish voice, and by an assault they suffered at Blackpool when they called Mr. Macmillan a traitor.

Make no mistake, the League of Empire Loyalists are crackpots—but as one who has always believed in the irritant value of non-violent crackpots I recognize they may serve some purpose in the scheme of things. Possibly, that they make other unthinking people justify their own decisions. Yet, whatever merit this peculiar league may have, it suffers from a complete indifference to ordinary standards of conduct. The members do not hesitate, for example, to intrude into private meetings by means known only to themselves and inferentially by obtaining admission cards by false pretences, forgery or by plain "borrowing." The object of their attendance is to create the maximum amount of disturbance.

At the Blackpool rally the loyalist boys got in, and they proceeded to create a disturbance. Amongst their choicest epithets was that of "traitor" directed to the prime minister. For their trouble they were forcibly removed.

The force used in that removal has, however, shaken Britain. A considerable number of observers, some of them Conservative delegates, others impartial journalists reporting proceedings, have testified that it was the most viciously premeditated assault ever seen in public in Britain. Two loyalists at least were shockingly mauled and seriously injured and the fury of the Conservative stewards was described by one very rational journalist as the most intemperate scene he had ever witnessed—and the particular gentleman had had considerable experience of Nazi Germany.

Many of the delegates enjoyed the literal blood and squeals and added to the irresponsibility by punching and kicking the victims when they were already pinioned. Other impartial observers swear to the fact that they were not only removed with incredible violence but after their removal were solemnly and deliberately kicked and punched in an anti-room.

At first the Conservatives considered it a joke. But it was seen by too many people, and the wind of public opinion developed into a gale. Almost resentfully an "inquiry" was ordered. At the time of writing the finding has not been made known.

There is no possible justification for the league members being present at the private meeting; there is even less justification for hurling abuse at the prime minister. There is no doubt that the intruders asked for trouble and got more than they bargained for. But there are certain standards of behavior which cannot be justified on any count and the violence used in this case has undoubtedly shocked the public conscience. But even worse than the fact that it happened — and the Conservative hierarchy could not have been held responsible for the excesses—is the fact that there is an inferential attempt to jusify it. It has, in effect, been condoned by the hierarchy of the party.

It is this fact which has shocked the public conscience. There is very little sympathy for the victims except on the grounds of the excessive violence used and that there was no attempt made to call in the police—the normal method of removing trespassing "guests."

Had there been some public expression of regret from Conservative leaders the incident would doubtless have been quickly forgotten on the grounds that excessive and mistaken zeal is not unknown in all walks of life — especially amongst the Empire loyalists. From their point of view the bashings may even have been considered worth while. It has added enormously to their notoriety. It has undoubtedly harmed the Conservative cause, and the communists have been able to chant "fascist thugs" with some justification even though they love the Empire loyalists less than the Tories.

There is plenty of time between now and the general election for the business to be forgotten, but had the election been more imminent the effect might have been disastrous for the Tories because Britain still retains its public conscience, its sense of fair play and its determination that even violent criminals shall be handled with all restraint possible.

When the smoke has cleared away and writs have been withdrawn one good thing is likely to emerge: it will be cops and not fanatical party stewards devoid of responsibility who will do any removing required in the future.

A Trumpet for Metlakahtla

"THE Tolmie rump government—it is nothing else—is as extinct as the dodo," exclaimed Hon. Ian Mackenzie, MP for Vancouver Centre, during a Liberal electioneering address, 25 years ago.

Mr. Mackenzie had unkind remarks for the other competing parties. "The CCF platform is 80 per cent revamped Liberalism and 20 per cent socialistic dynamite, without a leader," he said.

Women were urged to exercise their franchise by Mrs. M. Hall in an address to members of the Business and Professional Women's Club. "There is a distinct discriminatory movement against women in the industrial and professional world today," said Mrs. Hall, and women by their control of the ballot could correct this condition.

DOMINION election of 1908 was hotly contested in Victoria. The Conservatives held a giant rally in the Victoria Theatre, and cartoons lampooning rival political figures thrown on a screen by magic lantern were loudly enjoyed 50 years ago.

Candidate George H. (Harry) Barnard made a rousing speech and the capacity audience responded by heartily singing "For he's a jolly good fellow"

Liberal William Templeman also held a giant rally in the Victoria, but, said the Colonist, the audience was quiet and consisted largely of ladies. The meeting was weighted down with decorum.

Both were verbosely viewing with alarm the influx of oriental immigrants and both claimed to be ardent supporters of the working man.

Results of the local polls? Barnard: 2,171. Templeman: 2,166.

METLAKAHTLA Indian Station sent its trading schooner down to Victoria with a cargo of furs, Indian food, fish-oil, and cypress, 95 years ago.

Passengers included Revs. Lachlin, Tayler, Lucas and Cunningham and six Indians. One of the latter, a chief, would stay with the schooner as trader and supercargo.

Shares in the vessel were being sold to the Indian residents at the rate of $4 per marten skin and other furs in proportion. Business management would remain in the firm hands of Mr. Duncan.

The little colony in the north had all the civic services. Said Mr. Duncan in a letter sent on the Carolene:

"I want 24 military caps for the constables. They look first rate in their new suits. They have had hard work lately and do their business well. They have arrested the white man at Fort Simpson whom Captain McNeil complained of, about selling whisky and causing mischief among the Indians. He is now a prisoner here. They also ask for a trumpet and drum . . ."

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

WHILE some friends of mine were away over a long week-end from Friday to Monday their house was broken into and a fur coat, fur stole, a diamond ring and other jewelry were stolen by expert burglars who entered very professionally and searched the house very tidily and took only the most valuable items of readily disposable merchandise.

For a professional, it is no trick at all to determine when a house is left untenanted over a holiday week-end. To cruise around a neighborhood and find the darkened house, the empty garage and other indications of absence, is merely a matter of mileage in a car, and a little professional patience. They got about $2,000 worth of goods.

The next-door neighbors were also away for the weekend, and at this late date they now inform the losers that it has been their custom for years past to call up a baby-sitter agency and have a good reliable woman come in as house sitter during their absences. It is not generally understood that baby-sitter agencies, which in most cities are listed in the yellow pages of the phone book, supply many other kinds of sitters besides baby-sitters. They have sitters for old people, sitters for dogs and other pets, sitters for invalids, sitters for funerals when the house is left vacant, and house sitters, some of whom are employed for several winter months on end when the family is down south.

One agency informs me that they are so strict that when the house-sitter goes out to shop, the agency sends another sitter to stand by for even an hour or two. Sitting is now a thriving profession.

On Casting Stones

The very moderate and balanced editorial in the Colonist of Oct. 23, should meet the approval of all fair-minded readers, in its references to the "blue laws" and the Sunday symphony concerts. It is a deplorable situation that the one thing selected by the proponents of the Lord's Day Act for their criticisms (and further implied legal action) as an example of "Sabbath violation" should be the one outstanding instance—apart from the churches themselves—of service to the cultural life of the community at large. The editorial notices very justly (and very pertinently) the fact that these concerts do not impinge upon the appointed times of the church services. On the very lowest [illegible] to be quite certain that among the younger members of the community who may be noticed in audiences there can at least be no indulgence in any hoodlumism while they are in there; and some of us might argue that the type of lad who goes there is much less likely to be a hoodlum at all, unless he is driven to that by a ruthless denial of the worthier, more elevating forms of Sunday afternoon entertainment.

I believe I speak for many when I say that this attempt to enforce what you rightly call a strange and archaic document would command much more respect if its champions could show that they had previously enforced its provisions with reference to much less cultural and much more commercialized forms of Sunday activities. We may as well face the fact that in spite of the Lord's Day Act, we are approximating more and more closely to the U.S. "wide-open" Sunday. Any person who has eyes and ears may see truckloads of lumber or excavation dirt being conveyed along the highways on Sundays; and may see and hear carpenters working on house-erection jobs without the least attempt at concealment, even if such were possible.

I have ridden into Victoria on the church buses of a Sunday morning, whereon a clear majority of the passengers had paid cash fares. Perhaps in that case the end justified the means.

Have not our ministerial friends themselves made countless appeals from their pulpits for contributions which were manifestly meant to be paid at the time ("you will find special envelopes in the pews for that purpose . . . ")? I shall probably be told that the purpose of such enterprises is not commercial; while the purpose of the symphony concerts is commercial, whatever its apologists may say. Any such special pleaders will have some ado to convince me that commercialism has no place in the transportation facilities I have mentioned.

Springhill Disaster

The appalling mine disaster at Springhill, Nova Scotia, should surely make us ask ourselves have we the right to expect men to mine coal under such hazardous conditions?

Our engineers and scientists have used their brains to develop atomic energy, but it may be many years before it is available for heating our homes. In the meantime, is there no one who can devise a mechanical means of mining coal and saving the lives of human beings and the sorrow brought to their families?

Pooling Resources

Residents of Oak Bay have the use of a large central public library in Victoria able to serve the various needs of readers with different tastes.

The municipalities in Greater Victoria have grown in population in recent years, and to provide them more equitable representation on the board of the library and a more equitable scale of sharing its costs, a new contract between the city and the municipalities was drawn up in 1956 after it was discussed in conference and mooted in the press. This contract would alter the board membership from seven members from Victoria and four non-voting members from the municipalities to three members from Victoria and five from the municipalities, and would distribute the costs at 50 cents per capita of population, plus, for any remainder, a charge according to the number of books taken out. Stability in the working was provided for by the contract being in force 13 years instead of the present right of withdrawal after a year's notice.

It is hoped that the Oak Bay council will not continue to delay in signing the contract, now that the provincial legislature has obligingly abolished the need for a referendum; and will join with the other municipalities in what was undertaken in the interest of all; and that it will not be diverted, as by suggestions for a separate branch library, into getting the public to pay more for a lesser service when by pooling resources they can pay less for a larger service and a better one.

Anniversary of 'Great Misadventure'

Moscow Was Real Victor of Suez

The British-French-Israeli assault on Egypt, known as the Suez campaign, opened two years ago this week.

By CHARLES P. ARNOT
(North American Newspaper Alliance)

After two years of revolution, palace coups, border wars and hate campaigns, the Middle East still has not recovered from the British-French-Israeli intervention in Egypt.

And, after two years, the purpose, strategy and results of the "misadventure" still remain veiled in mystery.

More important, can the forces unleashed by the Suez intervention be checked—or will they continue setting off a chain-reaction of crises throughout the Arab world?

The "great misadventure" began at 4 p.m., Oct. 29, when the first Israeli paratroopers struck in Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Within a week, the French and British were bombing Port Said, the Russians were threatening a guided-missile attack against Britain, and Western Europe's supply of oil from the Middle East was cut by a vital 30 per cent.

In its haste to punish the aggressors, the United Nations not only rid Egyptian soil of every British, French and Israeli soldier, but also posted 5,400 UN emergency troops of eight nations along the Gaza and Sinai frontiers to protect Nasser against another possible Israeli assault.

Then the UN poured out $8,000,000 to clear the Suez channel of 41 sunken wrecks, all but one of which the Egyptians themselves blasted to the bottom when the Anglo-French bombings began October 31.

Nothing more has been heard of the "Suez Canal users' association" or any of the other ephemeral western schemes to win an international voice in running the vital waterway.

Today the canal carries half of all Middle East oil—on Nasser's terms. The British still have $250,000,000 of Egypt's money in cold storage, but during the past year they paid Nasser nearly $25,000,000 to use his canal—more than any other country.

By turning to the Communist bloc and imposing sharp economies on the home front, Nasser clearly beat the west's attempted economic squeeze.

Across the Arab world, photo shops report an all-time record demand for the beaming likeness of the darkly handsome 40-year-old Egyptian strongman.

His personal "empire" now embraces the nearly 33,000,000 Arabs of Egypt, Syria and Yemen—a realm greater than that craved by the celebrated Saladin in his heyday.

The latest Russian jets and radar-controlled tanks have replaced all those lost in 1956—and more. But despite Egyptian boasts, there's still no proof that the Egyptian soldier can fight.

Not counting the military expense, the intervention cost the British at least $250,000,000 in property—government and private—seized as "war booty," "Egyptianized" or otherwise impounded. The French have just settled their Suez damage bill for $56,000,000 and extended Nasser another $28,000,000 worth of credit.

The Sinai assault was not quite a complete loss for the Israelis. A half dozen ships now steam monthly through the Gulf of Agaba to Israel's southern port of Elath. But the Egyptians still block the Suez Canal against any Israeli vessels, and there are rumblings of new joint Egyptian-Saudi Arabian attempts to reimpose a blockade on Agaba's narrow entrance.

By clinging doggedly to his unassailable legal position, Nasser scored an incredible tactical triumph. But the real victor of Suez was Moscow.

For the nominal price of $270,000,000 worth of arms, $274,000,000 in industrial credits (to Egypt and Syria), some second-rate wheat, a few cheap anti-Western threats and a geyser of honeyed words, Nikita S. Khrushchev succeeded where the czars always failed.

The Soviet Union has climbed aboard the popular cause of Arab nationalism and wooed its champion, Gamal Abdel Nasser, in exchange for a priceless foothold at the gateway to Africa, the strategic hinge of three continents and the source of vital Western oil.

Scientists Meet Last Barrier

Man Step from Creating Life

By THOMAS R. HENRY
Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

The way now seems open to actual laboratory synthesis of living things.

This prospect appears from recent revolutionary chemical developments in breaking down the barriers between organic and inorganic matter. They have been described by Dr. Wendell M. Stanley, director of the virus laboratory of the University of California, in a report just issued by the Smithsonian Institution.

The remaining essential step, he says, seems to be the synthesis of one of the highly complex nucleic acids which forms an essential component of genes, the units of heredity. This, he believes, may be close at hand.

The ladder of life, as pictured in his report, is essentially as follows:

Nucleic acids, major constituents of the genes;

Viruses which incorporate genes and which, under appropriate conditions, not only can multiply but which can mutate into new forms;

Single-celled living things such as bacteria and protozoa;

Multi-celled organisms constituting all higher forms of life.

Progress in breaking down the barriers seems to have culminated very recently. Dr. Stanley says, Proteins, the building stones of life, have been produced from non-living materials.

The step still remaining, Dr. Stanley says, is the synthesis of the single heredity-transmitting acid.

Then man will actually have created life itself.

France's Angry Young Men Write Novels About Nothing

By BERNARD KAPLAN

France's answer to England's angry young men and America's beat generation, Alaine Robbe-Grillet, believes authors who stoop to relying on plots or even characters to write novels are crude hacks.

It would take all day and most of the night to discover the rudiments of a plot in one of Robbe-Grillet's slender novels. His characters usually go about disguised as "X," "Y" and "—". They are delineated with equal spareness. It's probably needless to add that his novels don't take place anywhere, either.

Mention such plot-playing Philistines as Francoise Sagan to him and his admirers and the response is a curled lip and pitying eye. "Frankly," he says, "we prefer not to talk about people like that."

"We" is the newest literary "school" of youthful originals in Paris. Called the "new-realists," they are the most discussed group of literary window smashers to hit France since the now dimly-recalled days of Jean-Paul Sartre and existentialism.

What do the realists "believe in"? That's simple. Nothing. What are they trying to "say"? Same answer.

Robbe-Grillet, who has been admiringly described by his disciples as a "true fanatic," declares that 'the real writer has nothing to say. He must create a world out of nothing after all." To show that he's not kidding, in one of his novels, "Le Voyeur," he left the climactic page blank.

Bitter Memorial at Belsen

'Conceal Not the Blood'

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

It's a fine, clear afternoon. The smell of fresh-turned earth mingles with the more acrid odor of burning potato and sugar beet vines.

The bite of fall is in the air, it's good to be alive, and you think, "It couldn't have happened here."

Yet there in front of you is a long, flat-topped mound of sandy earth covered by heather, and pressed into the earth is a weather-beaten wooden sign on which is printed:

"Here lie buried 1,000 bodies—21.4.45."

A little further on, another mound, this one larger, and another sign: "Here lie 5,000 bodies—22.4.45."

And another—"800 bodies . . . 24.4.45."

This was the site of the Belsen concentration camp, one of the most infamous murder factories of all time.

And all that's left of the many thousands who died in this place at the hands of the Nazis are these sandy mounds, the wooden sign boards, a few individual headstones planted in a clearing, a rotting wooden cross, and a simple stone needle erected in memory of those so cruelly dead, so short a time ago.

In general, the phrases engraved on the small headstones are in the same cool tones as those on the wooden boards.

Only once does one feel the rage of those few who survived. That is when the visitor approaches the man-high stone memorial in the centre of the clearing, on which is carved in Hebrew and English:

"Israel and the world shall remember.—

"Thirty thousand Jews exterminated in the concentration camp of Bergen-Belsen at the hands of the murderous Nazis.

"Earth conceal not the blood shed on thee."

You wonder what the German visitors think as they stroll through this place. Some bring their children. Do they tell their children of the crime committed here? Or do they say, as they did in those years just after the war, "We didn't know, we didn't know."

Somehow, you can't bring yourself to ask one of the German visitors, but you do follow four young soldiers of the new West German army, in this area on manoeuvers. They walk firmly toward the Belsen Memorial, cameras in hand. One, very business-like, tells the others to pose under the stone needle, and "Don't stand in the shade."

It seems impossible, until you remember that as far as these youths are concerned, all this happened in another lifetime. They come here and pose for snapshots for the folks at home much as they pose a few miles further on beside one of the mounds of boulders known to the natives as "Hun's Graves."

To them, it's just history.

1959 FORDS CHOSEN BY AVIS RENT-A-CAR COMPANY

Peter Taylor, general manager of National Motors, hands the keys of the first group of 15 1959 Ford Custom 300 and Fairlanes to J. V. B. Hawthorne, manager West Coast Area Avis Transport of Canada Ltd., and Chris Trip, its city manager. The Avis Rent-a-Car Company chose Fords, falling in line with their usual policy of providing the best in automobiles for their busy rental service. They have found that Ford products stand up to their rigid standards required for this type of service.

Latest Boon of Science —Instant Christmas Trees

TORONTO (CP) — A Canadian company has come up with an "instant" Christmas tree to aid buyers taking them home by car. Trees are bound to 20 per cent of normal volume by a machine, and a tug at a loose end of twine at the base opens them like an umbrella.

The Car Corner

'59 Ford Carries On Success Formula: Competence, Comfort

By J. T. JONES

The 1959 Ford, like its not too distant relative, the 1958 Ford, is a large, competent and comfortable car, with squarish lines and plenty of power.

It's a formula that has been quite successful for Ford in the recent past.

One major change this year is in the transmission department. The new Fordomatic is a two-speed type, where the old one had three speeds. The new type, while predictably not as flexible through all speed ranges as the old, is much simpler.

HALF THE PARTS

It has roughly half as many parts, and should be cheaper both to buy and maintain. It's a gear-plus-torque-converter transmission, as was the three-speed model. The three-speed type is still available on V-8 models, under the name of Cruise-O-Matic. Built by Borg-Warner and installed in Ford, Mercury, Lincoln, English Ford Zephyr, Studebaker and other makes, it is widely considered the best all-round automatic transmission.

Well, to get back to the 1959 Ford itself, it's a pleasant, easy car to drive, and it covers the ground quickly and comfortably.

Styling of the new Ford is not much changed from last year; It uses the same body shell. The rear has been tidied up a lot, though, and for my money looks about 300 per cent better. Those four enormous tail lights are gone, in favor of two large circular ones.

In 1957 Ford had what I considered (and still do) the best tail lights to be had—diffused so they didn't glare into the eyes of following drivers. For 1959 there is at least a partial return to this type, with the novel addition of an outside chrome reflector surrounding each lens. When these light up, they really light up, but they don't glare like some others.

Handling of the new Ford is just about the same as the last one—good if not thrilling. It has quite noticeable understeer and no odd quirks at all. Road feel through the steering wheel is good, which takes a lot of the tension out of driving. The car straightens itself quickly and positively coming out of corners, which it negotiates with ease.

Naturally the power is tremendous—with up to 361 cubic inches of V-8 engine, what else could you expect The standard 332 cubic inch V-8 puts out 225 horsepower.

EXCELLENT SIX

There is also Ford's excellent six-cylinder power plant, for those who want economy above performance. At 233 cubic inches and 145 horsepower, it's not what you could call feeble, either.

There isn't anything radical about the 1959 Ford, but there isn't anything archaic about it either. In general, it's an all-round good car with no special faults and a lot of sound virtues.

All of which, as we said in the beginning, has been a successful formula in the past and should be again.

A combination of a knowledge of music, tones, B.C. woods, chisels, knives, fancy planes and 20 years' experience helps B.C. government forest counsel Clarence Cooper, 1747 Fort, make excellent violins. He was first man in Canada to hold degrees in forestry and law.

He Makes Violins For Fun, Not Profit

Clarence Cooper, forest counsel of the B.C. department of forests, is one of only three men in British Columbia who hold degrees in both forestry and law.

But his true love is making violins out of B.C. woods and some of the 11 he has made on his kitchen table in the last 20 years he values as high as $700.

As a forester and a hobbyist he boosts the woods of this province. Because of the excellence of the B.C. woods for violin-making this province could become another Cremona, Italy, home of the famous Stradivarius and Amati violins, he says.

In making his violins he has used European spruce, eastern red spruce, Engleman spruce and Sitka spruce.

"Of all these, our own native Sitka spruce is best of all," he says. "I would class it as better than the European spruce the great masters used."

For the backs and ribs of the violins he uses B.C. maple, which he says is as good as the European maple and better than the eastern maple.

Even the varnish he uses on his violins comes from B.C. He has found the gum from the Douglas fir, mixed with raw linseed oil to dissolve and boiled for half an hour makes one of the finest brown shades of violin varnish.

He doesn't make them professionally and doesn't undertake repair work unless it is on a friendly basis for someone intensely interested in playing the violin.

Mr. Cooper not only makes violins, but is also an excellent violinist, having played with the Parkdale Symphony and the Harmony Symphony in Toronto.

He says that after playing the violin, he realized that instruments, for the most part, were defective.

"I realized that since I couldn't afford a top quality violin, why not make one?" he said. "But it turned out to be a greater thing than I ever thought it was."

He bought every violin textbook he could get his hands on, but never did find one to satisfy him.

"I sat down and figured it out. I sat a long time," he said.

Mr. Cooper's tools consist of a kitchen table as a work bench, chisels, knives, scrapers and very fancy small planes as well as a glue pot. It takes him 18 months to finish one violin.

Colleague Dies — Choice of Pope Begins

Sad Cardinals Sealed Off

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Saddened by the sudden death of an American colleague, 51 cardinals retired Saturday night behind guarded, double-locked doors to elect a new supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church.

A chanted Latin admonishment by the prefect of ceremonies and the tolling of a warning bell ended the cardinals' contact with the outside world.

WEIGHT OF YEARS

The princes of the church, many bent with the great weight of their years, secluded themselves behind a curtain of the strictest secrecy.

Only death can release a cardinal from this voluntary imprisonment, until the moment the college names the man whom the world's half-billion Catholics will regard as the 262nd Pope and successor of St. Peter.

Clad in their purple capes, the 51 cardinals marched in sombre procession behind the bearer of the three-tiered papal cross. While choristers chanted "Veni Creator Spiritus" — "Come, Creator Spirit"—the slow march proceeded toward the conclave area where the cardinals occupied their cells.

These are small apartments specially arranged for them in the sealed-off area of the Vatican Palace.

SUDDEN DEATH

The cardinals had begun assembling for this procession only 40 minutes after Edward Cardinal Mooney, 76-year-old Archbishop of Detroit, collapsed and died at the North American College on Rome's Janiculum Hill.

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, was in tears as he arrived at the assembly area and reported Cardinal Mooney's death to his colleagues.

APPOINTED HOUR

But not even sudden death could interrupt the rigid schedule of the conclave. The saddened cardinals, still discussing the passing of their friend and colleague, had assembled at the appointed hour in the Pauline Chapel of the Apostolic Palace.

The procession over, each cardinal proceeded to his cell. Some of the apartments are located in the ancient Borgia Chambers, some of them displaying centuries-old arms and armor.

Shortly after 5 p.m. the prefect of ceremonies, Msgr. Erico Dante, intoned the Latin words "Extra omnes," warning all outsiders to leave.

The marshal of the conclave, Prince Sigismondo Chigi, and 20 assistants, had been searching the conclave premises for nearly two hours, themselves frequently and loudly shouting the words "Extra omnes."

DOORS LOCKED

Only then were the doors finally locked, at precisely 5.20 p.m.

Prince Chigi, now himself outside the conclave area, turned to the Vatican guards and called out the order, "Hoist my flag!"

The guards hastened to raise the flag of the Chigi family over the Vatican buildings. This symbolized the conclave marshal's responsibility for Vatican affairs while the cardinals were locked in the secrecy of the conclave.

SOLEMN TASK

Now the cardinals were meditating in their cells upon the solemnity of their task.

The cardinals begin to ballot Sunday at about 10 a.m., and it is possible that before dark Sunday night the world will know the name of the man who will succeed the "Pope of Peace."

Stefan Cardinal Wyszynki of Poland, is the only cardinal from behind the iron curtain allowed to attend the conclave in Rome.

From 20 Hours To Four Days

VATICAN CITY (AP) — How long will it take to elect a new Pope in the conclave of cardinals? Based on precedent of the past century, it could be anywhere from 20 hours to four days.

Plus IX was elected in 1846 in 50 hours. Shortest conclave was in 1939 when the late Pius XII was elected on the third ballot in 20 hours.

More Drivers Than Ever Lose Licences

More and more B.C. drivers are having their licences suspended for bad traffic records and offences, in an effort to cut down highway slaughter.

George Lindsay, B.C. superintendent of motor vehicles, said yesterday that in the nine-month period ending in September, 2,000 drivers were suspended by his branch. On top of this another 2,446 licences were suspended on the recommendation of the courts. In the same period last year, 2,467 licences were suspended for poor records and 1,904 on court recommendations.

Accident Victim Getting Better

A Cobble Hill accident victim, in a coma for nearly two weeks, is reported to have shown a "slow improvement."

Orville Maxwell, badly injured in a truck-car collision near Duncan on Oct. 9, last night was reported in "satisfactory" condition in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

Challenge to Rock 'n' Roll Mushrooming in Folk Songs

By JIM TAYLOR

It sounded so weird, I could hardly believe it.

There I sat, listening to one of the top hit parade shows around, and the d-j had just finished screaming, "Here is is, gang, a comer on the hit survey 'Waltzing Matilda' by Jimmie Rodgers."

"Waltzing Matilda"? My memories of that particular piece go way back. It didn't impress me then, and I for one didn't shed a tear as the jolly swagman sank slowly into the billabong.

SWAGMAN SURVIVED

But apparently the swagman survived, for here was Jimmie Rodgers singing about him, making a hit record in a teenage market saturated with rock 'n' roll. So I sat back to listen, ready to be serenaded by the saga of the swingin' swagman with the blue suede shoes.

Strangely enough, it wasn't updated in the least. The tune was changed only slightly, there was no reference to rocking by the billabong, and the troopers still rode horses instead of hot rods.

In other words, it was a folk song, and it was selling. Rodgers sang it straight, with a folksy guitar that made for pleasant listening.

Checking with the record shops, I found that the disc is just one cut on an exceedingly-popular LP, "Jimmie Rodgers Sings Folk Songs." The LP is selling on a par with the top rock 'n' roll records.

Which brought to mind a statement in Variety about a year ago, in which the top men in the music business claimed the swing would eventually be toward folk music.

THEY WERE RIGHT

Apparently they were right. Rodgers isn't the only vocalist making a go with folk songs. The Kingston Trio is currently riding high with "Tom Dooley," one of the classic Tennessee ballads. Their LP, with such notable efforts as "Three Jolly Coachmen," "Sloop John B" and "Fast Freight" is one of the top sellers on the market. "Tom Dooley" is already over the 1,000,000 mark.

RULES ROOST

Maybe the antidote for rock 'n' roll is here at last. First, I thought calypso would do the trick, but the patient unfortunately survived and came on stronger than ever. Then it rose above the upsurge of ballads and still rules the roost.

Now the folk singers are having a shot at it. The odds are all against them, but I hope they make it.

Elvis Presley has released another record. If this one becomes a hit, it will be on the Presley reputation, not on the quality of the material.

One side is called "Stoned." If someone named Melvin Smurd had recorded it, no disc-jockey would ever bother putting it on the air. The flip side, "One Night," can only be dismissed as worse.

NEW RELEASES: "Beep Beep" by the Playmates could turn into one of the top novelty numbers of the year. It's a tale of a race between a Cadillac and a Nash Rambler, and the Cadillac people should sue . . . Jack Scott has produced a carbon copy of his hit "My True Love" in "With Your Love." In spite of that, it sounds good and will probably sell . . . Dipping into the very minor classics, Decca has put words to the Warsaw Concerto and come up with "The World Outside," a fair ballad by the Four Aces . . . Thought for the day: If groans were outlawed, half the vocal groups in the country would be struck dumb.

Unoriginal Killings Appal Hitchcock

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Alfred Hitchcock, who has devoted his artistic career to proving that homicide can be fun, is appalled at the lack of originality displayed in American murders.

"I am thinking of writing a book entitled 'Murder Full of Old World Charm,'" the rotund British suspense master said on the set of MGM's "North By Northwest," which he is directing.

Dropping both his chins into a contented smile, the balding, 59-year-old director said:

"We don't seem to get such glamorous murders as abroad. I remember one charming case in England, for instance, in which a man dissolved his women victims in acid baths. Murders in England are less bang-bang-bang-and-run than here. They seem to have a more literary, colorful quality."

Pressed to explain why Americans trail in this crucial field, Hitchcock sighed:

"First, firearms are easier to get here. Thus, one is tempted to end one's frustration by the shortest and quickest possible means.

"Second, Americans have more money and can thus afford a divorce more easily than Englishmen. This means Americans don't have to resort to more subtle means of elimination to be free again and, say, carry on a love affair.

"In England, one murders for respectability. In America, one divorces for it. Either way, the purpose is to stop the neighbors from talking."

RENOWNED VIENNA ACADEMY CHORUS RESPONDS WITH SMILES AND GUSTO TO LEAD OF THEIR DIRECTOR, GUENTHER THEURING. BRILLIANT 24-MEMBER GROUP APPEARS AT ROYAL THEATRE THURSDAY AS THE FIRST FAMOUS ARTISTS' OFFERING OF THE SEASON.

Choir Saves Slim Week

By BERT BINNY

This week, unlike next, offers a slim entertainment program.

However, on Thursday at the Royal Theatre, a high spot in musical effort is sure to be reached with the Famous Artists' initial program of the season.

This presents the renowned Vienna Academy Chorus, 24 selected male and female voices under the killed direction of Guenther Theuring.

The program is in three parts, works from the greatest in choral literature, music of Vienna and a potpourri of Austrian folksongs, instrumental interludes, dances and even yodels. The chorus dress the part, too, with concert dress Viennese attire and colorful Tyrolean costume.

"This is the best season for memberships in the history of the organization," says Jack Barraclough, president of the Victoria Symphony Society.

Meanwhile, negotiations directed toward removal of the Society's offices from their present location at the Oak Bay Junction are proceeding favorably.

E. D. B. Hawkshaw, of the Society, speaking of the premises at 1110 Government Street, now under active consideration, says: "We anticipate that we will be in there in a month or two."

The next concerts are on Nov. 9 and 10, with soloist Betty Jean Hagen, the brilliant Canadian violinist.

Activities within the Theatre Guild are not, by any means, confined to preparations for the second major production, "The Paragon."

While this is scheduled to open its eight-night run on Nov. 22, a one-act play is to be presented following the general meeting on Thursday. The director is Dorothea House and the players will be Sheila Brown, Anna Chapman, Sheila Litt, Peggy Johnson, John Martin, Alan Lacroix, Gary MacDonald and Bill Fawley.

Three one-act plays will also be performed by the Studio Group about the middle of December.

A play-reading group has its first meeting tonight and new members are invited. Time is 7.30 p.m. and the place Apt. 5, 634 Michigan Street, home of the group's chairman, Rose Merryweather.

November 26 is the date set for the second in a series of recitals in aid of the St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, building fund.

Artists will be contralto, Eleanor Duff, and the "Meistersingers," directed by Dudley Wickett. Arrangement of numbers shared by Miss Duff and the chorus are by Mr. Wickett and Richard Proudman, who is also the accompanist.

The auditorium at Oak Bay Junior High School has been booked for Nov. 7 and 8 by the Seattle Players for the presentation of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex," which opened at the Roycroft Theatre in Seattle on Oct. 4.

Producer and director is Edward Jones and existing plans call for two night performances at 8.30 p.m. and a matinee on Nov. 8.

The Columbine Club has a meeting set for 2.00 p.m. on Thursday at 1244 Basil Street.

The club is presently concentrating on plans for two strong entries in the 1959 Provincial Drama Festival although other activities are also being considered.

Magicians Honor Houdini's Memory

CARL HEMEON
. . . to give free show

This is a big week among magicians in North America. In fact it's National Magic Week.

In memory of Harry Houdini, who died Oct. 31, 1926, U.S. and Canadian magicians are displaying their legerdemain at free shows.

This pleasant gesture is being initiated and encouraged by the Society of American Magicians.

Victoria's Carl Hemeon, representative here of the Seattle Assembly of the Society, will be providing a Magic Show on Friday evening for patients at the DVA Hospital.

Incidentally, Carl, and two magicians in Vancouver are the sole B.C. members of the society which harbors all the elite among North American wizards and illusionists.

Society Provides Outlet for Arts

Poetry read to jazz, paintings by contemporary artists and an Italian cuisine specializing in pizza pie flourish in a genuine atmosphere of "art for art's sake" every Friday and Saturday night at the headquarters of The Progressive Artists' Society on 1306 Wharf Street.

The society, formerly known as The Scene jazz club, which received its charter about a month ago, caters to "doctors, lawyers, artists and just Plain Jane Does," Bud Glover, promotion manager, said.

"We provide an outlet for all art forms — paintings, music, writing and poetry," he explained. "Right now we have 305 members."

He went on to say that there is a "need for outlook from the musical standpoint" and that existing music groups in Victoria clubs provide "shabby" entertainment. He said the society's aim is to introduce a "higher calibre" of jazz.

Pizza pie and soft drinks can be bought from a kitchen adjoining the meeting room which holds about 180 persons.

Since the society's formation members have been treated to stylings by a vocal group from Las Vegas, musicians from the Woody Herman orchestra and humorous poetry read to jazz by Victoria's Professor Anthony Emery.

Mr. Glover said future aims include an extension of membership and the opening of art and music studios. He said the society also plans to provide entertainment for "youngsters" under 21 on Sunday evenings.

U.S. Jet Airliner Sets Coast-to-Coast Record

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines jet plane whizzed from Los Angeles to New York yesterday in four hours and 43 minutes, claimed as a record for commercial jet transports. The Boeing 707 carried 39 passengers and a crew of five.

Crash in Detroit

Dying Vulcan Called for Aid

DETROIT (AP)—The pilot of a British jet bomber reported a complete electrical failure moments before his big delta-wing Vulcan exploded and crashed in a Detroit riverfront residential district.

Maj. Louis W. Lagro, information officer at Selfridge air force base in Detroit, said the emergency radio report was made Friday over Dresden, Ont., about 50 miles northeast of Detroit. The pilot said he was flying at 35,000 feet.

"Then he asked for an emergency 'steer' to Kellogg Field at Battle Creek, Mich.," Lagro said, "but before the ground radio man could reply, the pilot asked for directions to any airport."

Lagro said that was the last anyone heard from the plane.

The frantic call was picked up by a radio operator at Cleveland, Lagro said. It was preceded by a "May Day" international distress call. Moments later the 70-ton bomber roared down out of an overcast sky and blew apart at tree-top level.

There was no hope that any of the six crewmen aboard could have survived in the explosions and fire that reduced the plane to rubble.

Giant Will Live On

What may be the grandfather oak of the Victoria area will be preserved unharmed despite nearby construction, says L. F. Piedt, owner of the Kenneth Street lot on which the giant stands. The huge tree is believed to be 400 years old, is 15½ feet in circumference and towers 75 to 80 feet. The property owner says he bought the lot because of the tree. Dwarfed in its shade are old friends, Mrs. Rosena Rowse, 648 Kenneth, and Mrs. Elsie Mossop, 86 High Street.

She'll Fill Economic Gap

U.S. 'Partnership' In Commonwealth Meaningful Toast

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Those who take the long view in international relations see some significance in a three-country ceremony scheduled this week.

Prince Philip flies from London to propose a toast to "partnership" between the Commonwealth and the United States. Governor-General Massey supports the toast and Lewis Douglas, internationally-minded former U.S. ambassador in London, will add a few words.

The occasion is a dinner meeting Thursday of the English-Speaking Union, assembled here for a week-long conference of world branches.

SOUNDS FAMILIAR

At first sight, a salute to Commonwealth-American solidarity sounds familiar enough. It is, the realist may say, just another polite after - dinner phrase, another cliche for the diplomatic ease book.

In fact, however, the emphasis is new. The real banality of the banqueting circuit — though its fundamental importance must not be belittled — is the Atlantic relationship, the Anglo-American link. The U.S. and the Commonwealth are rarely coupled in any formal way.

Therefore, it may be permissible to view next Thursday's toast as a long-term portent, a starting point for speculation that ultimately—some closer working relationship may be established between the free world's most powerful forces.

NEW SERIOUSNESS

Another inference may be that the Commonwealth is being taken with a new seriousness. The tenuous bonds among members seem to be strengthening.

Cynics have called the family group a "frail vase," an old boys' club, an alumni association. In London last year, a luncheon speaker conscious of strains between republican India and segregationist South Africa described it as a "loveless marriage" just a few jumps ahead of the divorce courts.

No such deprecation could be detected at the Commonwealth economic conference in Montreal last month.

Canadian officials feel the new meaningfulness of the Commonwealth, if not just sentimental fancy, may result from the way members are "shaking down" into a relationship that, in practice, really works.

By itself, however, the Commonwealth is not a workable economic unit. The absence of the U.S. is often keenly felt, as it was during the Montreal meetings. Many who wish the western world well may echo next Thursday's toast.

Independent Nigeria Two Years Away

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain yesterday promised independence on Oct. 1, 1960, to the West African Federation of Nigeria, her biggest colony. Nigeria, on independence, will become a member of the Commonwealth.

The decision means the end of 56 years of colonial rule for 35,000,000 people in the Nigerian Federation.

Cultural Coming of Age Sparks Interest in Art

A cultural coming of age in B.C. has contributed to the "active" interest in art of many Vancouver Islanders, Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery, said yesterday.

He said the centennial year was a stimulant in triggering off art interest, with the arts festival and the circulatory exhibit.

SUCCESSFUL TALKS

Mr. Graham said the first meeting yesterday of delegates representing Vancouver Island arts councils and groups to channel art activities, was "very successful."

Representatives from Port Alberni, Courtenay, Cowichan, Crofton, Nanaimo, Vancouver, Saanich and Victoria discussed methods for improving facilities for circulating art exhibitions on the Island and local problems and requirements.

Mr. Graham said the Victoria gallery will offer services to up-Island communities in way of exhibitions and lecturers. The Canada Council has given a $3,000 grant for the operation of the extension services, directed by Moncrieff Williamson.

Victoria will serve as a "servicing point for exhibitions put together by the National Gallery, Western Canada Art Circuit, UBC, Vancouver Art Gallery and Vancouver Community Arts Centre.

TCA's Monopoly Safe for While

OTTAWA (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines appears to be in no immediate danger of losing its transcontinental monopoly.

The reason is that the Air Transport Board, now hearing the application of Canadian Pacific Airlines for authorization to operate a transcontinental service in competition with TCA, is not the final arbiter in the matter.

The issue in all likelihood will be dumped in the lap of the government before it is settled.

In such a political case—TCA is publicly-owned and CPA is a private company—Prime Minister Diefenbaker would probably want to take a hand.

But Mr. Diefenbaker departs Tuesday on his world tour. He will have a lot of work to catch up on when he gets back in late December and in January he will be mainly concerned with the opening of the new session of Parliament.

It appears probable, therefore, that the TCA-CPA battle will not be resolved until well into 1959.

Meanwhile, most observers feel that the Air Transport Board has so far not been too impressed with CPA arguments, though the hearing is far from over.

CPA has maintained it can run a transcontinental service with seven big passenger planes. TCA disputes this.

The board does have the power to reject or accept the CPA application, but either party in the dispute may appeal to the cabinet.

North Shore Hospital Authorized

Health Minister Eric Martin has announced government approval for a 285-bed, $4,775,000 hospital to be built by the North and West Vancouver Hospital Society.

The government has also approved an 11-bed $55,000 nurses' residence for the Kootenay Lake General Hospital Society at Nelson, and approved of Bella Coola Hospital Society calling tenders for a separate 15-bed nurses' residence at an estimated cost of $75,000.

In all cases the government will pay 50 per cent of the approved cost.

Veterans' Guard Elects Officers

More than 80 members of the 114 Veterans' Guard Association attended its annual dinner meeting Friday night at Lougheed's Banquet Club. Herbert Pearson of 2751 Foul Bay was elected president, and John Dirom of 830 Princess, vice-president.

Job-Seekers Total 3,750

There were 3,750 unemployed persons in Victoria this week, an increase of 131 over last week, although this increase is moderate in comparison with unemployment figures a year ago.

Continued improvement in industrial openings for men was offset by further shipyard lay-offs, and the total number of unemployed men is now 2,378, an increase of 17 over last week.

A large number of housewives seeking work for the Christmas season brought the total of unemployed women to 1,372.

Russia's surface is dotted with more than 250,000 lakes.

Our Spuds No Giants

It looks like Vancouver Islanders will miss out on the blue ribbons where giant potato contests are concerned.

According to Alan Barker, managing secretary of the Island Vegetable Co-operative in Victoria, the variety of potato grown on the Island just does not grow to "excessive sizes."

Mr. Barker said the biggest potato he has seen growing on the Island weighed 5½ pounds. He said, though, he has not yet had reports on potato weights from the Comox Valley and Courtenay district.

But the record here looks like a pee-wee compared with a 35-pound spud produced in Ireland.

Ill-Fated Mine To Be Sealed?

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (UPI)— The floodlit scene at the pithead of the ill-fated No. 2 colliery presented a bizarre picture early today with anxious relatives gathered in small groups, reporters dashing in and out of a makeshift newsroom, and long line of ambulances standing by.

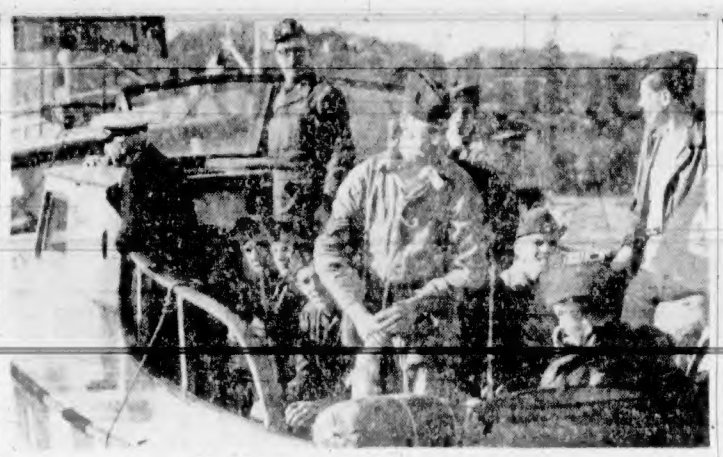
Marquees were set up along the roadway, and the whole scene looked something like a midway. However, there was no joy as reports of certain death for the trapped miners, and rumors about sealing off the mine spread through the crowd.

Throughout the ordeal, the men, women and children awaiting word of the fate of the miners, kept their hopes alive, and refused to believe that their own relatives would be among the dead.

Many of the miners rescued earlier were back at the pithead. Some of them said they would go back into the mine again just as soon as it could be put back into operation, while others said they had enough, and would look for other work.

The people of the town, who have become used to emergency and tragedy in recent years, were serving food to rescuers, and taking care of survivors with professional pride.

They were warmly co-operative with the many newsmen who shared the "death watch." They showed no visible signs of grief or anxiety, although hardly a family in town was not connected with the tragedy in some form or other.



D-Day on Discovery

On to victory is the cry of these cadets landing on Discovery Island yesterday to participate in two days of mock warfare, a combined operation of cadets of three services. Defending the island are 20 Canadian Scottish Cadets and 30 Air Cadets, and attackers are 20 Princess Patricia's Light Infantry Cadets and 30 Rainbow Sea Cadets. Standing at the wheel is Capt. Ernest G. Beaumont, owner of the island.

'Bump' Like Quake

HALIFAX (CP) — The "bump" or rock burst at Springhill's No. 2 colliery Thursday night was caused by a landslide of soft sandstone rocks and was the magnitude of a small earthquake, says Dr. G. C. Cummings, professor of geology at Dalhousie University.

Dr. Cummings explained that the sandstone rock in the Springhill area is very weak. When coal is removed supports are constructed to carry the load. Pressure at that depth is great. When too much pressure builds up, a bump occurs, he said.

'I Went for Lunch Early Or I Wouldn't Be Here'

Archie Legere, 50-year-old survivor of now the 1956 mine explosion and Thursday's upheaval, has been a coal miner in his native Springhill for 29 years.

By ARCHIE LEGERE
As Told to Canadian Press

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Something told me to eat my lunch early Thursday night. I came down the (coal) wall and started to eat and talk with Jim McManaman. I was ready to go up the wall when I changed my mind and decided to eat.

If I hadn't I wouldn't be here today.

When I was eating, the bump came. I never felt anything like it in my life.

It fired me 10 feet. I picked myself up and couldn't see anything. I wasn't knocked out. I was lucky I wasn't hurt.

I heard men moaning and hollering "get me out of here."

I got Bill Bleekhorn out with a pick and shovel. He was up to again we knew somebody was in. Knees in coal. McManaman outside coming after us.

and I went up to see if we could get any of the other men, overman had a first aid kit and one fellow was pinned up we fixed him up. Another fell against the roof by wooden low looked like he had a busted leg. We knew he was done shoulder. We put his arm in a sling.

We had to cut two props. Then the bare-faced men came away from Clyde Murray Jr., in after us. I was glad to see them. I can tell you.

What am I going to do? Coal mine? The air was coming down the mining is all I know, but rather pital now. I'd go to Cape Breton where there are wall instead of up like it's sup- than go into these mines I'd go posed to. But that was only temporary. When it changed no bumps.

Rescuer Recovers Body of Brother

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The body of Ed Bobbie, one of the miners killed in a bump here, was found by his brother Archie, who went into the pit as a bare-faced rescue worker. Bobbie has a wife and four children, the youngest five weeks old.

Seattle Shows Lots of Speed As Cougars Take 4-2 Loss

By JIM TANG

Seattle was seldom mentioned in pre-season Western Hockey League speculation, but if the newly-named Totems always skate like they did last night at Memorial Arena they're going to take a lot of watching.

Rested since last Sunday, the Totems literally skated Victoria Cougars into the ice as they sped to a 4-2 win before 4,025 disappointed fans who had shown up in the hope that the Cougars could move into the Western Division lead by extending their unbeaten streak through a fifth game.

Instead, the Totems won their fifth in a row to move three points ahead, looking much the best of the clubs which have shown here this season as they fired a staggering 53 shots at Victoria goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier.

If they have any weaknesses, and undoubtedly they can stand a bit of improvement here and there, the Totems didn't show it last night. They iced three forward lines of about equal calibre and had nine forwards full of skate.

Their defence, helped no end by the speedier Seattle forwards, had little trouble holding out the Cougars except for a three-minute lapse at the start of the third period. Goalkeeper Billy Tibbs wasn't tested often enough to get a line on his abilities.

The Cougars tried hard enough but they were unable to keep up and they sadly missed hard-checking Don McLeod. If the Cougar defence threw a hard check all night, it escaped notice. As a result, the Totems wheeled about in the Victoria zone without any fear of getting racked up, firing away at Marcel Pelletier. Many of the shots weren't dangerous but Pelletier had to be good in the third period to keep his club in the game after it scored two quick goals to get close.

Yet, despite the Seattle edge, the game was close and a couple of breaks might have swung it the other way. Tibbs stopped two labelled shots he never saw and the Cougars missed two or three open goals. On top of that, Pelletier was embarrassed no end in the second period when an 80-foot flip shot bounced past him when he couldn't make up his mind whether to try and smother it or take it on the bounce.

Seattle Roared at Start

But a Cougar win last night would have been a miscarriage of justice. The Totems opened up from the start and had Pelletier under siege from the first minute. Their first goal came after the Gerry Leonard-Marc Boileau-Cummy Burton line had kept the puck inside the Victoria blue line for almost two minutes. And it was in there for most of the opening 20 minutes, the Cougars being fortunate to end the period trailing by only two goals.

Showing signs of coming back late in the first period, the Cougars started the second in promising fashion, missed getting close when Stan Baliuk slapped Gordie Haworth's pass wide. Then a bad defensive lapse gave the Totems their third goal and three minutes later came the flip shot from centre ice by Leonard, who was out as a penalty killer.

It is to the credit of the Cougars that they didn't fold there. They kept on trying and when Doug Macauley and Al Nicholson scored 69 seconds apart in the first three minutes of the third period, it seemed they might yet pull it out.

But the Totems had the answer for that and only spectacular blocking by Pelletier on a half-dozen close-in shots kept the Cougars within striking distance.

Riders, Calgary Tie In Crucial Contest

CALGARY — Calgary Stampeders scored a converted touchdown late in the fourth quarter here last night to ruin a tremendous comeback drive by Saskatchewan Roughriders and emerge with a 29-29 tie in their crucial Western Interprovincial Football Union game.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts.
Winnipeg	14	11	3	0	300	158	22
Edmonton	15	9	5	1	288	264	19

Calgary	15	6	8	1	304	275	13
B.C. Lions	14	3	12	0	188	375	6

Last night's scores: Saskatchewan 29, at Calgary 29; B.C. Lions 8, at Edmonton 25. Next game: Monday, Calgary at Winnipeg.

Riders, who could have clinched the third playoff spot in the WIFU with a victory, battled back from a 22-0 second-quarter deficit and actually took the lead, 29-22, with four minutes left in the game.

But Ron Clinkscale tossed a touchdown pass to Jack Gotta at 12.40 and Doug Brown booted the convert that gave the Stamps the tie and kept their playoff chances alive.

The tie leaves Calgary one point behind the third-place Riders. To make the three-team playoff the Stamps must beat the Blue Bombers in Winnipeg Monday and hope Saskatchewan loses to Edmonton Eskimos next Saturday at Regina.

THREE TOUCHDOWNS

Jack Hill, the league's leading scorer, sparked the Riders with three touchdowns, four converts and a single to move within 12 points of the all-time WIFU record of 112 points set last year by Gerry James. Hill also missed a chance to sew the game up for the Riders when he was wide on an eight-yard field goal attempt at 10.15 of the final quarter and had to settle for a single point that tied the score at 22-22.

On Calgary's next punt, Harry Lunn ran the ball back 50 yards for a touchdown, and Hill converted to send Saskatchewan ahead, 29-22. However the lead didn't last more than two minutes. Clinkscale took a lateral from Nobby Wirkowski and passed to Gotta, in full stride at the Saskatchewan 40. The big end took it all the way, and Brown converted.

CAME CLOSE

Calgary came close to pulling the game out in the earlier quarter, but gambled and failed on two third-down plays inside the Saskatchewan 10-yard line instead of kicking for points.

Jim Bakhtiar, Chuck Holloway and Gene Filipski scored the other touchdowns for Stampeders, Brown made good on all the converts and also kicked for a single point.

Quarterback Frank Tripucka took to the air to move the Riders after Calgary had built up its lead. Hill took two passes for touchdowns and scored the other on a two-yard plunge after Mike Hagler set up the play with a 56-yard run.

Esks Nail Down Runner-Up Spot

EDMONTON — Edmonton Eskimos clinched second place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union here last night as they romped to a 25-3 victory over B.C. Lions before about 13,000 fans at Clark Stadium.

Fullback Johnny Bright sparked the drive, moving within 75 yards of his own WIFU rushing record as he scored two touchdowns and ran 115 yards. Bright has one more game, against Saskatoon Roughriders Saturday at Regina, to break the record of 1,679 yards.

ALERT DEFENCE

The game was full of pass interceptions and fumbles, and as usual the alert Eskimo defence furned every mistake to the Eskimos' advantage. The Esks intercepted seven of Al Dorow's passes as the Lion offence never came up with a sustained drive.

Fullback Normie Kwong got the other Eskimo touchdown and Jackie Parker kicked a field goal, two singles and two converts.

Ted Hunt's 17-yard field goal in the second quarter was the only Lion scoring play. Lions, with three victories in 15 starts, wind up the season next Saturday in Vancouver against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

BIG ADVANTAGE

Eskimos gained one big advantage in wrapping up second place. They get the choice of site for the opening game of the two-game, total-point semi-final against either Saskatchewan Roughriders or Calgary Stampeders.

Statistically, last night's game was all Eskimos. The strong Edmonton running game netted 246 yards and 20 first downs, and Parker completed 10 of 19 passes for 150 yards.

Lions ran for 132 yards and gained 126 through the air.

Neither club could mount a strong offensive until late in the second quarter, but by that time the Eskimos had a 9-0 lead on a pass interception and two Lion fumbles.

BEHIND THE GLASS.

By Jim Tang

What is happening at the Victoria Curling Club this season certainly bears out the contention that curling will boom in a city following the staging of the Canadian championships. This should be the best season ever at the VCC.

Secretary-manager Bill Oliver reports that more than 60 new members are curling in the club draws this season, and it appears as if there is a chance that some club curling will have to be done Saturday nights.

The five-nights-a-week schedule allows for only 80 rinks and there are already more than enough curlers to fill the 64 men's rinks. There may be enough curlers to form four or more extra rinks, which would create quite a problem for the draw committee. It is difficult to provide regular club curling for more than 64 men's rinks unless there is a jump all the way to 80 rinks.

On the other hand every members has the right to curl in the club draws if he is on a complete rink.

There has also been a sharp increase in league curling and with about 300 rinks in action, there is very little ice time left during the days except before noon. If the usual quota of league curlers joins the club next season there should be the full quota of 96 rinks and the VCC will finally have reached the goal of every club, a full active membership with a waiting list of curlers anxious to join.

It has become increasingly evident that except for such events as the Totem and B.C. bonspiels, curlers are no longer interested in attending week-long bonspiels. They take too much time and cost too much money, and they are unsatisfactory even if there should be a good entry unless held in a city with more than eight sheets of ice.

Realizing this, officials of the Victoria club have decided that this season's club bonspiel will be a four-day affair, starting on Thursday, Feb. 12 and ending on the following Sunday. Local rinks drawn against each other will get into action on the Wednesday evening.

However, it remains to be seen if the date was wisely chosen. The Victoria bonspiel will come the week after the B.C. Bonspiel and, probably, the week before the popular Alberni Valley 'spiel. Both these events attract a good percentage of visiting rinks and any sizeable outside entry seems unlikely for Victoria.

Further, it has been noted in previous seasons that interest in club play tends to lag after the club bonspiel. Members who have been curling steadily for a week in the bonspiel, sacrificing time they normally use for other things, are no longer as eager and the number of spares needed to fill rinks is always greater after the club bonspiel. Some thought might be given for another season to holding the Victoria 'spiel late March. That date should be better than the one chosen for this season.

Vancouver's annual Totem Bonspiel is a cinch to be the best ever in B.C. It is already the biggest with the maximum quota of 176 rinks reached more than a month before the first rock was scheduled to be thrown. In fact, more than 20 rinks had to be turned down.

Among those who made their entries too late were Reg. Stone of Trail, Dick Topping of Oliver, Wes Young of Victoria, Johnny Gagnon of Mission, Clare Miller of Winnipeg, Harry Spottiswood of Alberni, Bill Karjala of Nanaimo, Bill Filipenko of Stettler, George Volk of Edmonton, Jack Glover of Ashcroft, H. R. Harnett of Saskatoon, Nick Marsh of Kamloops, Bill Henning of Edmonton and Don Nunn of Salmon Arm as well as a number of Lower Mainland entries.

Name curlers abound with the biggest name of all, Matt Baldwin, at the top. Glenn Gray will have a rink there, and so will Bill Allan of Olds, Bill Clarke of Regina, Truman Bailey of Moose Jaw, Ken Anderson of Calgary, last year's champion, Clare Leatherdale of Winnipeg, Jimmy Hill of Delisle, Baldy Northcott of Winnipeg and many others of equal or almost equal ability.

Tony Gutoski, B.C. Consols champion, will head the Island entry, which includes Ray Chambers, Gordie Moore, Gary Taylor and Elmer Hoffman of Victoria, Dr. H. Bowker of Ladysmith, E. F. Henderson of Youbou, Bill Osborne of Port Alberni and Bob Fuller of Nanaimo.

EXTRA END: Matt Baldwin trying for a fourth Canadian championship, should be harder to head off than ever now that he has signed up Glenn Gray, considered by many the best third in the game. Gray will take over for Dr. Jack Geddes but Gordon Haynes and Bill Price, with Baldwin in his wins at Kingston in 1957 and hers last March, will again make up the front end . . . Steve Hayhurst, one of Western Canada's better-known skips, is reported moving to Victoria some time next month. Hayhurst won the Northern Saskatchewan Consols championship in 1957, lost out to Garnet Campbell in the provincial final. Gordon Grimes, who skipped the Saskatchewan Brier rink last March, was Hayhurst's vice-skip . . . Johnny Franklin of Rosetown, who skipped Saskatchewan's Brier entry three times and was for years one of the toughest skips in the West, passed away recently in a Saskatoon hospital . . . Winnipeg now has 83 sheets of artificial curling ice, putting the Manitoba capital ahead of Edmonton, which has "only" 77. It gives one some idea of the popularity of curling in the West, particularly as every club has its maximum quota of members and league curlers . .

Whites Rugby Leaders

Oak Bay Wanderers' white team climbed into first place in the first division Victoria Rugby Union yesterday as Don Burgess scored three tries and booted one convert to lead them to a 29-6 win over Victoria College at Carnarvon Park.

In other games yesterday, Royal Roads cadets won their first game of the season with a 12-0 decision over PPCLI, and Oak Bay's red club climbed into a second place tie with James Bay Athletic Association by downing HMC Venture, 34-0.

	W	L	Pts
Oak Bay Whites	5	1	10
JBAA	4	0	8
Oak Bay Reds	4	1	8
Victoria College	2	3	4
HMC Venture	2	4	4
Royal Roads	1	4	2
PPCLI	0	5	0

Yesterday's scores: Oak Bay Whites 29, Victoria College 6; Oak Bay Reds 34, HMC Venture 0; Royal Roads 12, PPCLI 0.

Next games: Saturday, HMC Venture vs. Oak Bay Whites, Naden; JBAA vs. PPCLI, Macdonald Park; Oak Bay Reds v. Royal Roads, Windsor Park.

Duke followed Burgess with two tries for the Whites, who led 16-0 at half time. Gerry Main and McIlveen each had one try and Wilson kicked three converts. Derek Hood kicked a penalty goal and Jere Mitchell scored a try for Vikings.

Stuart Wright ran for four tries for the Reds at Windsor Park. Chris Pollard, Tate and Frank Berry scored a try apiece and Tate counted three converts. Norm Dixon converted one try.

Dave Smith led Royal Roads with a pair of tries. Mike Cavanaugh and Ernie Dueck got one try each.

Athletics Humiliate Vikings

ALBERNI—Alberni Athletics, flashing all of their old-time scoring power, drubbed Victoria College Vikings, 80-29, here last night in the second game of their home-and-home senior "A" men's basketball series.

Vikings, who impressed observers while losing 58-48, to the A's Friday in Victoria, could do nothing against a polished Alberni offence last night. They trailed, 32-18, at half time, and wilted in the second half as the Athletics poured in 48 points while giving up nine.

Lance Stephens paced the Athletics with a 23-point performance, getting 13 of his points in the wild second half. Doug Brinham had 12 and Ken Larsen, Dave Williamson and Denny Grisdale each added 10 points.

Larsen, playing his second game with the Alberni club, turned in a sparkling two-way effort last night.

Victoria College Vikings—Bob Tomlinson 9, Waldo Stillings 6, Ken McCulloch 2, Ed Kowalyk 2, Doug Flynn 3, Rol Fieldwalter 4, Jim Wilson 4, Willie Wong, Mike Soltice, Terry Clark, Dave Stillings. Total—29.

Alberni Athletics—Lance Stephens 23, Doug Brinham 12, Ken Larsen 10, Dave Williamson 10, Denny Grisdale 10, Al Brown 4, Gary Pastou 2, Bill Andrews 2, Ray Guilleux 2, Ken Hill 4. Total—80.

Spokes Trip Canucks, 3-1

Spokane Flyers, newest entry in the Western Hockey League, continued to surprise last night as they outscored Vancouver Canucks, 3-1, sparked by the brilliant goalkeeping of veteran Emile Francis.

Largest crowd of the season—5,330 fans—saw the Spokes move into a second place tie in the Western Division, with three wins and a tie in five games. They are still unbeaten on home ice, their only defeat coming in the only game they have played away from home—2-10 at Seattle.

Francis stopped 37 shots, including the first 34, as he held the Canucks off the score sheet until 17.28 of the third period. By that time, Al and Ching Johnson and Blinky Boyce had given the Spokes a safe 3-0 edge.

ROYALS LOSE

At New Westminster, the Royals played their fourth successive overtime game on home ice, and lost for the third time as Jerry Melnyk clicked on a play with Chuck Holmes to break it up after three and a half minutes of extra time.

It was the seventh overtime game of the season, the fifth to be decided in the extra period.

Art Jones, pressed into service after being kept inactive by an injury, tied it for Royals at 12.29 of the third period. Melnyk's winner came when he swept the puck past Bev Bentley as he was knocked down.

Goal Scored In Wall Game

WINDSOR, Eng.—For the first time in 46 years, a goal has been scored in one of the world's weirdest sports—Eton's ancient wall game.

It happened when an Etonian, identified only as G. Mayrick, threw the ball at the opposition's goal after holding the ball against the wall with his foot, touched the wall with his hand and declared "Got it!"

Under the rules of the game, two teams of 10 boys each tear and tug at each other for possession of a ball in a long, six-yard wide area bounded by a college wall on one side and a ditch on the other.

Wolves Win, Tie for Lead In O.C. Soccer

LONDON (CP) — Wolverhampton Wanderers moved into a points-tie for the lead in the tight English League First Division soccer race Saturday with a 3-1 victory over Birmingham.

The defending champions dominated most of the play and won with two second half goals.

Preston North End defeated Notts Forest 1-0 to join the four top teams.

Arsenal and Bolton, who started the day two points ahead of the rest of the pack, both lost. Arsenal went down 1-2 at newly promoted Blackburn and Bolton was tripped by Aston Villa 2-1.

The result was a pileup at the top of the standings with Arsenal, Wolves, Bolton and Preston all having 18 points. Arsenal led on goal average.

One-line work by goalkeeper Gil Merrick kept Wolves only 1-1 so long at Birmingham. Roy James Matthews, who goes on the 51st and 76th matches for the champions, right on top.

Aston Villas upset of Bolton highlighted a great day for the First Division underdogs and changed the standing at the bottom.

LEAVE CELLAR

Villa emerged from last place. Leeds, which was the only team to travel to Tottenham, and beat Hotspurs 3-2. Everton, last

Soot for Pesty Soil

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

SOOT FOR GARDENS — A [illegible] Victoria: If you hate coal or wood the soot from your annual cleaning is most useful in the garden and should be stored indoors for a month before using it around or near any growing plants as it is somewhat caustic when fresh. I would be reluctant to use soot from an oil burner or furnace anywhere in the garden.

Soot is a good fertilizer and can be dug in around your plants or it can be placed in a cloth bag and so spreading in a barrel of water to make soot water, an excellent mild stimulant to plant growth. Spread on the surface of a seed bed it helps to keep the soil temperature up [illegible] the spring.

In the fresh vegetable beds soot can be used during the fall digging [illegible] and soil. As it helps to keep mouse and slugs away from the bottom of the trench as the land is dug over.

Sprinkle a little hydrated lime over the soot and cover immediately with soil. The lime accelerates the soot [illegible] release free ammonia which spreads through the soil keeping it during all the year.

DAY LILY CULTURE — [illegible] Victoria: The Hemerocallus or Day Lily can be grown in practically [illegible] to full sun and in pH any soil [illegible] different and kind of soil [illegible] can be easily cared. The roots may be bought and planted either in the fall or spring. Remember [illegible] who potted row manure or a mixture of peat moss and [illegible] and plant with the growth buds [illegible] the surface.

Washington Cabinet Hardware

Pat Hind, our hardware salesman of the week, was just telling me about the large shipment of Washington Cabinet Hardware that has just arrived. He's excited, and you will be too, when you see what we have on display. If you're in the market for quality cabinet hardware knobs, hinges, catches, sliding door hardware, towel holders, pot holders, pop up garbage cans, etc., etc., why not drop in and see Pat or any of the other friendly salesmen in the hardware department?

Here's a few plywood specials—

32"x96"x3/8 Weldtex plywood. Per sheet, $3.99

4x8x5-16 Weldtex, most of the pattern sanded off, would be just the thing for sheathing. Per sheet $3.84

Also a large selection of plywood cuttings.

Next time you're down don't miss looking through our "Bargain Alley" where we have many good buys in odd plywoods, wall board, doors, panelling, etc. Some of the low, low prices will surprise you.

The Moore-Whittington Lumber Company operates one of the finest wood-working factories on the Island and is equipped to do practically any woodworking job. We would welcome the opportunity to quote you on your next set of Kitchen Cabinets, Windows, Doors, etc. No job too large, or too small.

Thank you
See You Next Week

Control of Fraser Needed

Fish Could Be Saved

Control of the Fraser River would place British Columbia's fishing industry on a sound and stable basis, according to Vancouver engineer Val Gwyther.

A member of the Fraser River Multiple Use Committee, Mr. Gwyther told the Victoria Rotary Club that the conflict between fish and power interests results from misconception.

He suggested that special legislation should be brought down to create an organization to investigate and evaluate all the resources of the Fraser River basin.

He said development of the Fraser was hampered because fisheries people appeared to be concerned only in the maintenance of present fishery by natural spawning. He explained that the optimum development of the salmon fish resources could not be thought of in this way and that control of river water flows sometimes expose discharge, temperature and sediment, plus other necessary factors, are required for the optimum production and regulation of the salmon species.

"Natural spawning conditions are not the best conditions for propogation of salmon," Mr. Gwyther said. "Spawning beds are sometimes totally obliterated by floods. Low water in summer months is often a barrier to spawning runs and low eggs to frost. Unsanitary conditions in egg nests are also detrimental to survival," he said.

He said these conditions result in a high mortality rate which can be greatly reduced by regulation of physical factors such as water flow, temperature and sediment. He stated that such regulation can be and has been provided in fish works constructed in conjunction with power dams and reservoirs, and also generally in the increased production of salmon by artificial means.

Sophisticated Whimsy

'Blithe Spirit' Still Diverting

By BERT BINNY

There was — and still is — a most diverting evening of entertainment to be had with Charles Condamine, Ruth, his second wife, and Elvira, his first.

They, along with a bicycling psychic, a supercharged maidservant and a pleasantly ordinary doctor and his wife make up the cast of Noel Coward's sophisticated whimsy, "Blithe Spirit."

The blithe comedy was presented by Peninsula Players Friday and Saturday at Sidney Elementary School.

The players made a most acceptable job of what is undoubtedly a rather breathless and demanding script.

Bob Hallock, as Charles, showed a high degree of technical competence, the bequest of much study and experience. Similarly, Dorothy Rayburn provided a fine performance as "Ruth," always strong and definite and sometimes full of fire and fury.

As Elvira, Mary Leaf succeeded admirably in being outwardly completely different from Ruth. Both Margaret Dixon as Edith and Eve Gray as Madame Arcati created intriguing personalities.

Ever reliable Joan Henriksen made an excellent and complete job out of the bit part of Mrs. Bradman. Herb Drew as Dr. Bradman was on the right track in playing very straight.

Ailsa Rothery's direction was very good, particularly in that it showed theatrical competence.

Charity Soliciting Considered

Fixed Policy to Be Sought On Door-to-Door Sales

City council will seek through the intermunicipal committee a uniform policy throughout Greater Victoria on door-to-door sales for charity.

It made this decision after changing its mind and giving the Y's Men's Club permission to sell nuts from door to door in November.

At its previous regular meeting, council had formed a policy against door-to-door sales and rejected the Y's Men's application, forgetting that it had approved this summer a peaunt sales drive by the Victoria chapter of the Order of DeMolay in December.

"We can't make fish of one and fowl of another," Ald. Hugh Ramsay said yesterday, "reluctantly" moving that permission be granted to the Y's Men.

Ald. Austin Curtis proposed referring the question of policy to the intermunicipal committee.

"Where some municipalities grant permission and another doesn't, there's going to be some overlapping of boundaries," he said.

City Officer Completes Long Course

Maj. P. T. Nation, son of Maj. H. T. Nation of 2380 Windsor Avenue, has completed a nine-week special course at the Canadian senior officers' school at Kingston, Ont.

He is one of 13 Canadian and two British army majors completing the course, which started three years ago to provide future commanding officers with instruction in the latest doctrines, training, skills and habits of command.

He left Victoria in 1935 to attend the Royal Military College at Kingston, and served with the engineers in the British army during most of the Second World War. Maj. Nation is now with Canadian army headquarters in Ottawa.

JOHN CARSON

There are times when a car driver finds himself "in the middle" of a situation.

John A. H. Carson, 3507 Lorraine Road, found himself in that fix the other day. He was driving in multi-lane traffic when he saw a youngster starting out from the curb on his right into a crosswalk.

Mr. Carson was afraid the child might cross in front of him into the path of the other car. After stopping he gave an exaggerated "stop" signal for the other car to see.

Because of his action, observed by a city police officer, Mr. Carson will receive tickets to a home game of the Victoria Cougars.

His selection is part of a driver courtesy campaign run by police of the four Greater Victoria municipalities in co-operation with Woodward Stores (Victoria) Ltd., Frigidaire Ltd., the Victoria Hockey Club and The Daily Colonist.

Olden Goldberg was charged with homicide Wednesday night. Police said marks on Geraldine Williams' body indicated that Olden hit the child, then strangled her.

How to Judge Voice Without Hearing It

LONDON (AP)—The Russians have invented a machine to tell if a singer is any good without the trouble of listening.

Moscow radio said a top quality operatic voice depends on tones with frequency of about 3,000 vibrations a second.

"Not even the keenest ear can always catch the subtle acoustic processes. . . . The sound frequencies (are recorded) on film in the form of lines of different length.

"It is possible to determine whether the singer has a voice of professional calibre without actually hearing it."

'Turn from Foe to Friend'

Quemoy Forces Wooed by Reds

TAIPEI (UPI) — The Chinese Communists announced yesterday they would shell the Quemoys and other Nationalist-held offshore islands only on alternate days, and told the Nationalist forces there "if there is lack of anything, just say it and we will give it to you."

It was one of Red China's strongest bids yet to woo Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces over to the Red side, and away from the United States.

"It is time now to turn from foe to friend," a broadcast declaration by Red Chinese defence minister Peng Teh-Huai said.

Meanwhile Chiang Kai-Shek said yesterday the time for a revolt in Communist China is ripening. When it comes, he added, its success will be expedited from outside.

Chiang apparently implied that his own Nationalist forces would intervene in any Hungarian-type uprising. But he carefully avoided saying the Nationalists would counter-attack against the Communists, who threw them off the mainland in 1949.

On Thursday, Chiang renounced the use of force as the principal means of returning to the mainland.

Bonner Feels Secure

A prediction by Liberal leader Arthur Laing that Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be replaced before the next session of the legislature brought a prompt counter-prediction that it would more likely be Mr. Laing who loses his job.

Mr. Laing told the annual meeting of the Esquimalt Liberal Association Friday that he was sure Mr. Bonner would be replaced with Education Minister Leslie Peterson before the session starts.

"The only person due for replacement is Mr. Laing himself," said Mr. Bonner yesterday.

The Liberal leader said that if Mr. Bonner had been "an ordinary lawyer instead of the chief law officer of the province he would have been disbarred by now."

"How that man can stay there I can't tell you," said Mr. Laing during a speech in which he flailed at all phases of the B.C Social Credit government.

Mr. Laing also predicted that the CCF-labor alliance would be broken off at the 1960 Canadian Labor Congress convention and said he doubted that the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway would ever be "self-sufficient."

it's Customized CHRISTMAS Credit to solve Your Christmas Money Problems!

The Bay's Family of Credit Plans are designed to suit your individual needs . . .

These plans include:

• 1. Monthly Charge Account—This is the most popular year-round account because it lets you shop through the month without carrying cash, then gives you an itemized statement of all your expenditures. This account has no interest or carrying charges and must be paid in full by the 10th of each month.

• 2. Budget Account—Especially designed to provide you and your family with clothing and other soft goods on a convenient budget account of $15 or over. You pay only 10% down (minimum down payment $5) and the balance over 6 months (the minimum monthly payment is $5). This way you enjoy your purchases while you pay for them.

• 3. Deferred Payment Account—A long term, long range plan designed to help you live better and have the benefits of ownership while you pay. This plan is for furniture, appliances, motors, boats, pianos, sewing machines, TV sets and most major items for home use. The down payment is as low as $5 depending on item purchased. You may have up to 24 months in which to pay your account . . . 36 months on pianos and fridges. The Bay provides free fire insurance on your purchase for the life of the contract. This is the best way to furnish your home and pay out of income.

• 4. BUDGET BUYING CARD for Christmas Shopping

A. Easy-to-open—Any salesperson in the store will help you or simply go to the accounts office, 4th floor, and a helpful experienced credit expert will open your account for you without fuss or bother.

B. Convenient Easy Terms—Decide how much you intend to spend for all your Christmas shopping, except food, then pay 10% down (minimum down payment $5) and we budget the balance for you over six equal monthly payments.

C. Easy-to-use—As you shop your purchases are recorded on your Budget Buying Card so that you can keep track of what you have spent and how much you have left to spend. Your whole family can use this account.

E. 90-Day Accounts, Too—If you complete your payments within 3 months, there is no interest or carrying charge.
